a tribute to a man of dedication

This yearbook represents a depth of character at Biscayne which we had not anticipated to find, but have discovered nonetheless. To give you some idea of the quality of the people we have photographed, we dedicate this yearbook to Jose Cardenas.

Some of you may not know Jose. In many ways, he is the spirit of Biscayne. But most important is his representation of Biscayne's character.

Jose, like Biscayne, ended up in Miami as a result of Castro's revolution in Cuba. From what we can gather, he worked in Havana in a cigarette factory for forty years and was something of an accountant, electrician, and jack-of-all-trades. At Biscayne, he is an employee in the cafeteria.

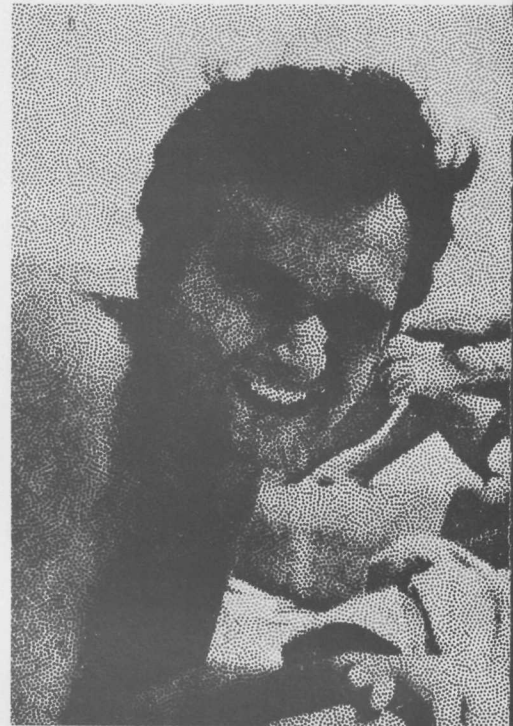

Jose, like Biscayne, has accepted his state in life as a step off for something greater. That something can be sensed in Jose's behavior. His mannerly conduct, his balance of firmness and gentleness, wisdom and youth, is merely indicative of his dignity and depth of character. His dignity and charity are without convention and, by their nature, are without the support of an enviable position or a well-paying job. He is a gentleman.

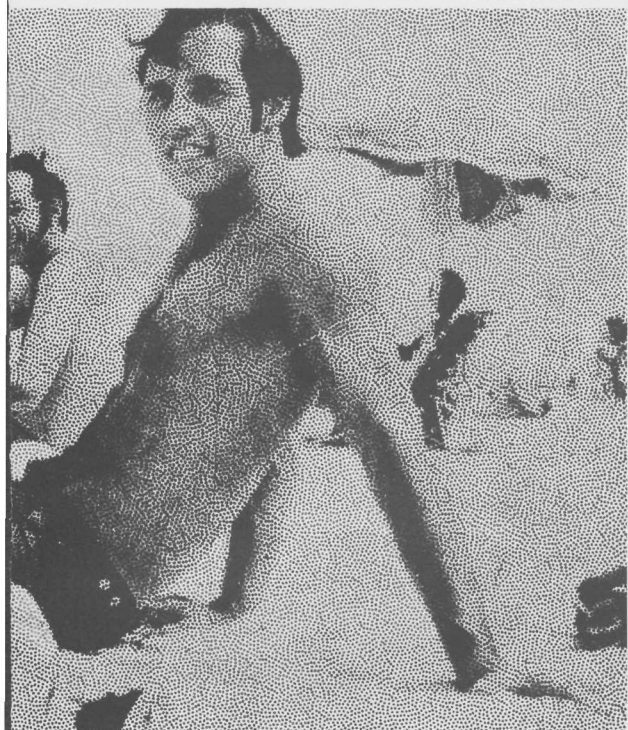

Again, to Jose Cardenas we dedicate our efforts and concern which this yearbook symbolizes.

"No man is an island, entire of itself; every man is a piece of the continent, a part of the main; . . . any man's death diminishes me, because I am involved in mankind; therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls. It tolls for thee."

John Donne—Devotions XVII

The Logos wished to recognize publicly four individuals who have made significant contributions to the Biscayne community. Since they will not be with us next year we feel we must express our gratitude now.

Dr. Leo Brophy, Dr. Josefina Rolando, Mr. Warren Ashby and Mr. James Maney have been "part of the main" for quite a few years. They have been responsible for much committee work upon which all colleges thrive. They have held a variety of offices important to the College. However, the position each held is a noble position which at best can be called the unfortunately feeble term of teacher. Many people call themselves "teacher" but few enoble the position as definitively as our departing friends have done.

Often, new students are informed of the "fine faculty" which is available to the true student. We feel these four teachers have contributed to the reputation of the faculty and to the education of their students. We feel these teachers have made true students of many Biscayne undergrads. We will feel their absence strongly.

Incoming Freshman were warmly welcomed at the 1973 Freshman Orientation Banquet. Cheerfully decorated walls, clean sparkling tables, and delicious succulent food awaited the expectant Freshmen. As each table of students got up to get the food, members of the faculty and administration intermingled and conversed with the students, creating a relaxed and amiable atmosphere. Since the food line moved quickly, everyone was soon eating heartily. After everyone got up to put their trays away, the best part of the evening was yet to come: speeches. The articulate and eloquent lecturers made the evening end in a most literate fashion.

What would Biscayne ever do without the radiant and regal Rat? Where would we go to slake our thirst and parched throats? Where would we go to watch such intellectually inspiring films like The three Stooges? And where would we go to be with sincere, intelligent, and genuine people?

Clearly then, let us rejoice for the never-reeking and always remarkable Rat . . .

cross country race

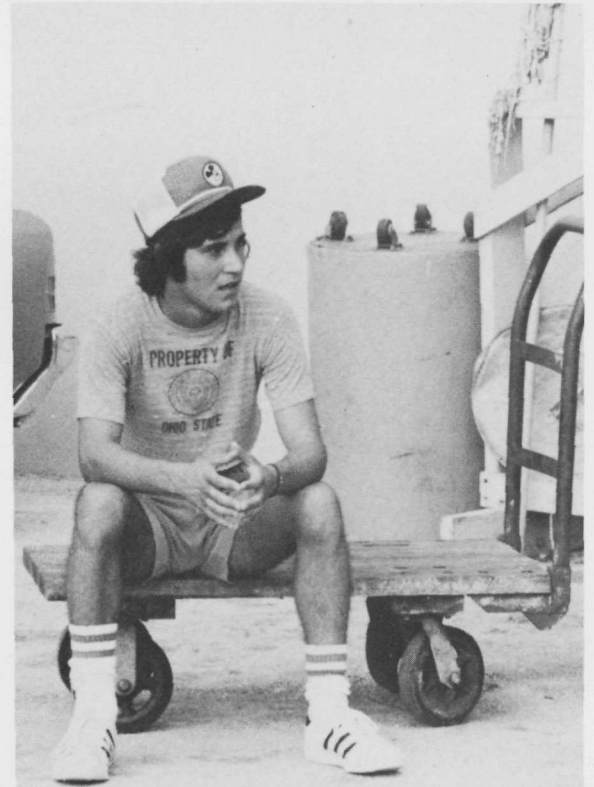

For the first time in Biscayne College's prestigious sports history, a cross country track race was held. The carefully chosen course was the beautiful "back-40" acres of our calm, capacious campus. The enticing first prize was: a cold keg of bubbly beer supplied by the world-renown Rathskellar. The beer would be bestowed to anyone tough enough to endure and finish the nerve-wracking race. As the exhausted runners neared the finish line, the winner was heard to say: "Where's my beer?!!!" And the last runner indeed exclaimed: "No fair, no fair, my jock strap snapped!!!"

Friday Feb 8 Time 8-1

Cafeteria (Lunch + Supper) Library (After 6 PM.)

The most exciting week of the 1973-74 year had to be the Homecoming Week, February 6-10. The executive efforts of the S.G.A. and the participation and cooperation of the Biscayne students combined to make a worthy week for the revellous Bobcats.

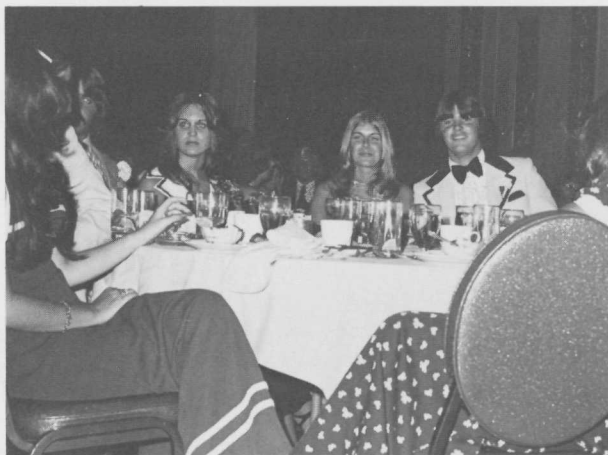

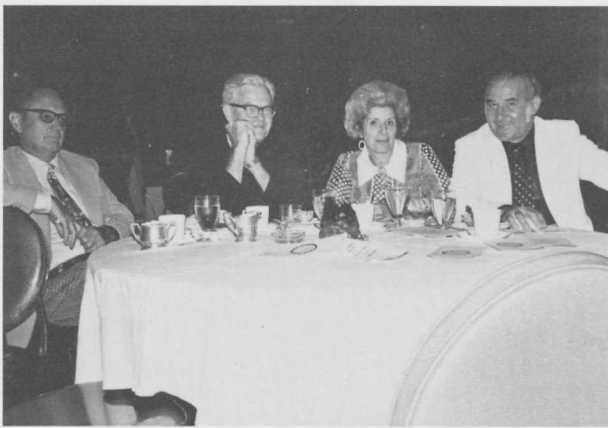

This activity-filled week included such fun festivities like: 10 cent beer night, with a booming band (Mourning Sun) and frolicsome films to titilate the intellect like the Roadrunner and Laurel and Hardy, all held at the Rat.

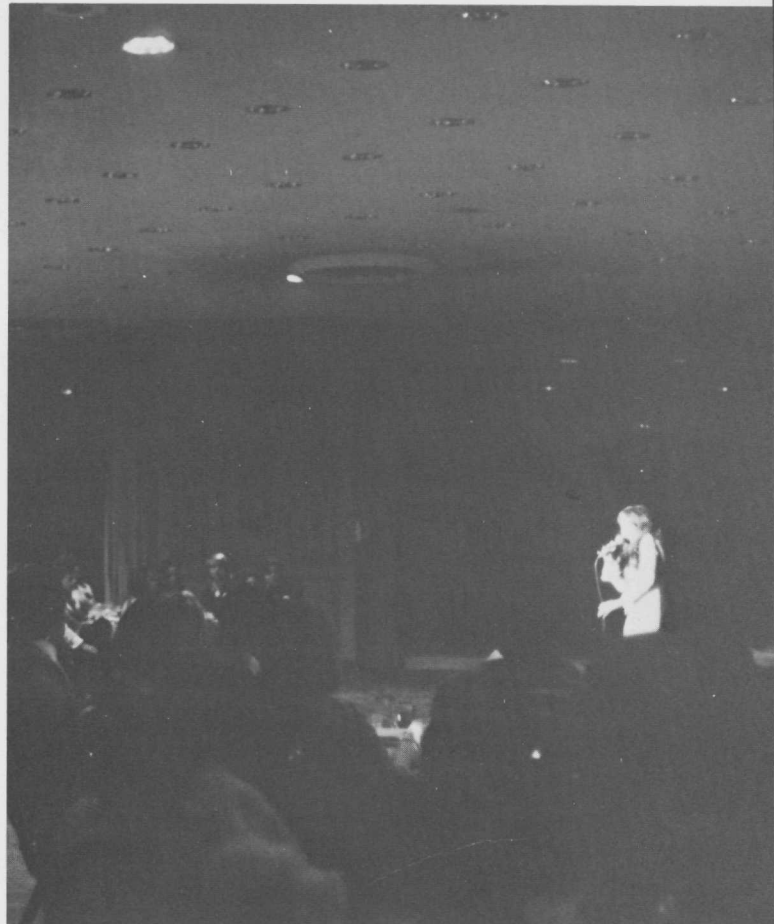

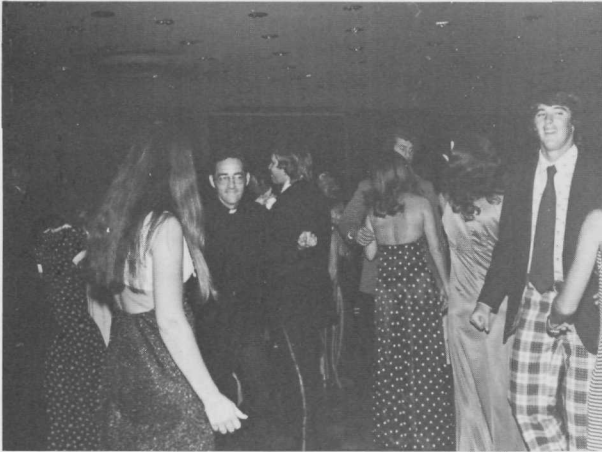

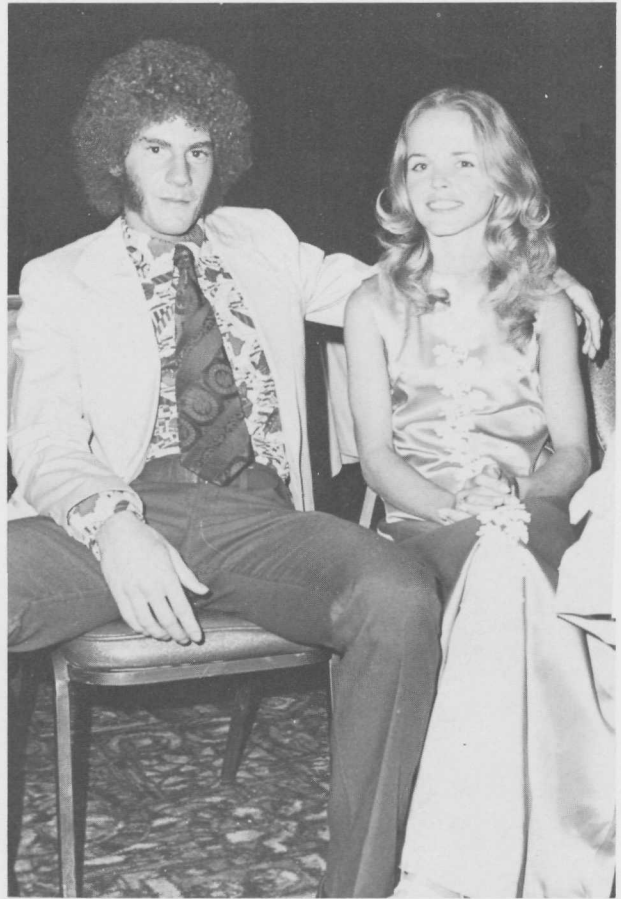

All this built up to the climax of the week: the Homecoming Dance, where the Biscayne Bobcats and the Barry Beauties promenaded up and down the elegant Playboy Plaza, while the beautiful bunnies catered to the groups' every whimsey.

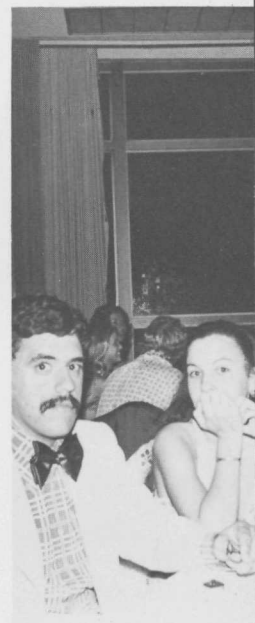

The following night, the Biscayne Bobcats flogged Florida Southern in a vicious and victorious game.

The final glitter of this gem-of-a-week was the Battle of the Bands, held at Biscayne's adorned acres. The various harmonious musicians blended to make a most pleasant Sunday afternoon and an excellent ending to a wonderful week.

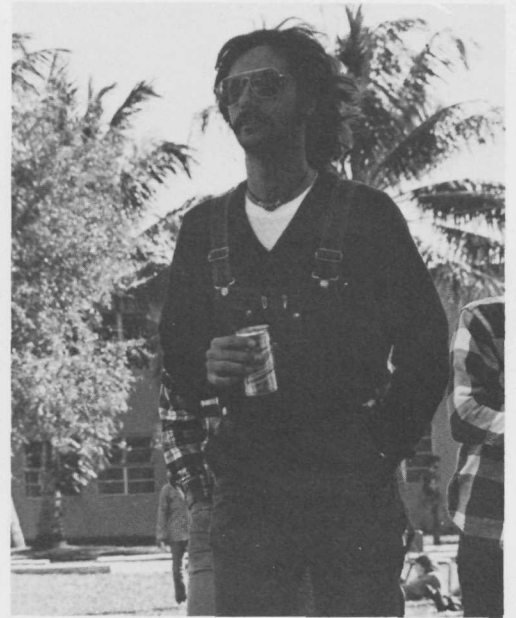

Like the calm after a storm, the happy but tired Bobcats, appreciative of the change in pace, relaxed. Music, food and quiet conversation marked the end of Homecoming '74.

Got one?

About using our fantastic communications technology to spread knowledge? About protecting the earth's environment. About making our medical marvels available to more people more cheaply? Whatever ideas you have you'll probably need electric power to make them work.

By the way, have you ever wondered why a glowing light bulb is the almost-universal symbol for an idea?
