DEDICATION

With great sincerity and honor, we dedicate Logos 2000-2001 to
Dr. Phil Shepardson, Professor and Coordinator of Communication Arts.

Dr. Shepardson is the definition of COMMUNICATION.

As everyone who has attended his classes knows, from behind the cameras, to the microphone, to the classroom, Dr. Shepardson is the consummate professional.

In fact, while studying at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst, where he received his B.A. in Communications, an M.A. in English, and a Ph.D. in Communications and Theatre, he also pursued a professional radio and television career enduring over 30 years. This experience has also allowed Saint Thomas University to gain knowledge and skill for our very own radio station that is going strong on its second year. In addition, Dr. Shepardson has taught, published a speech textbook, and written several plays and two collections of short stories.

We dedicate this book to Dr. Phil Shepardson because he deserves recognition for his professional and teaching accomplishments.

The students who are lucky enough to meet him and to be taught by him have and will learn much more than the actual curriculum requires. Not only does he teach the student with intense willingness, but also he does it with unparalleled wit allowing the student to really enjoy class through all the obstacles of demanding work they may encounter.

Dr. Shepardson really allows his students to be themselves, to become the best individual possible, and to share those talents with the world. He encourages all of us to join his "Triple-A- Club" by becoming "Assertive, Articulate and Autonomous" human beings. He always states that the "Triple-A's" are the most important qualities needed to pursue and achieve lifelong goals. He would obviously know.

Dr. Shepardson, keep up the good work, and thank you for all you've taught us. If we can take what we have learned from you and be as confident as you are, we will accomplish anything.

Letter from the Editor

Dear Readers:

Last Spring, I was given the position of Logos Editor. When I took this position, I knew I wanted to make the best yearbook ever. However, several obstacles came into play. I soon found out that the budget was working against me. If I wanted to do all the wonderful things I had in mind, I needed more money and more help. Later, I lost an Advisor, and then another, and of course the major obstacle Time, especially since I was due to have my second child before graduation 2001. This yearbook was a struggle to say the least, disorganized and sometimes unsure where to go. Then of course, to coordinate and delegate a team of students to work together and get the job done ASAP was no small task either. Still, credit is due to all those that participated into getting Logos 2000-2001 yearbook completed with their best efforts despite the frustrations and limitations.

This opportunity was a great learning experience. I was confronted with bigger and more serious problems than I ever imagined; I am unsure how I stuck it out till the end. Deadlines came and went, and we were running behind from day one. Faced with the problems of things to catch up on, along with the steady demand of time to move forward, our work really piled up. I emphasized quality more than quantity. I found that a steady balance between the two was difficult to achieve. Having finally sent the last pages to the publisher, whom I must give a great deal of recognition, I can only hope my hard work will pay off with the yearbook coming out on time this year. Challenged with work to be done, the demand of school, my family, and my nearness to delivering my baby, I once felt I wanted to withdraw from the Editor position, and leave it all behind, but I couldn't. I chose to stick it out! For taking on this position meant commitment: commitment to staff, commitment to STU, commitment to the readers and most importantly commitment to myself. This was a job for my fellow student body. I truly hope you will treasure this Logos yearbook. My main focus was to document our thoughts, our times on campus, and our time in history. I want you all to be able to look at this book 10 years down the road, and enjoy a smile on your face when seeing what we thought, what we did, and how we looked at one time in our lives. Thank you Saint Thomas University for this incredible opportunity. It surely has been memorable.

Sincerely,

Melissa Comesañas-Tirse

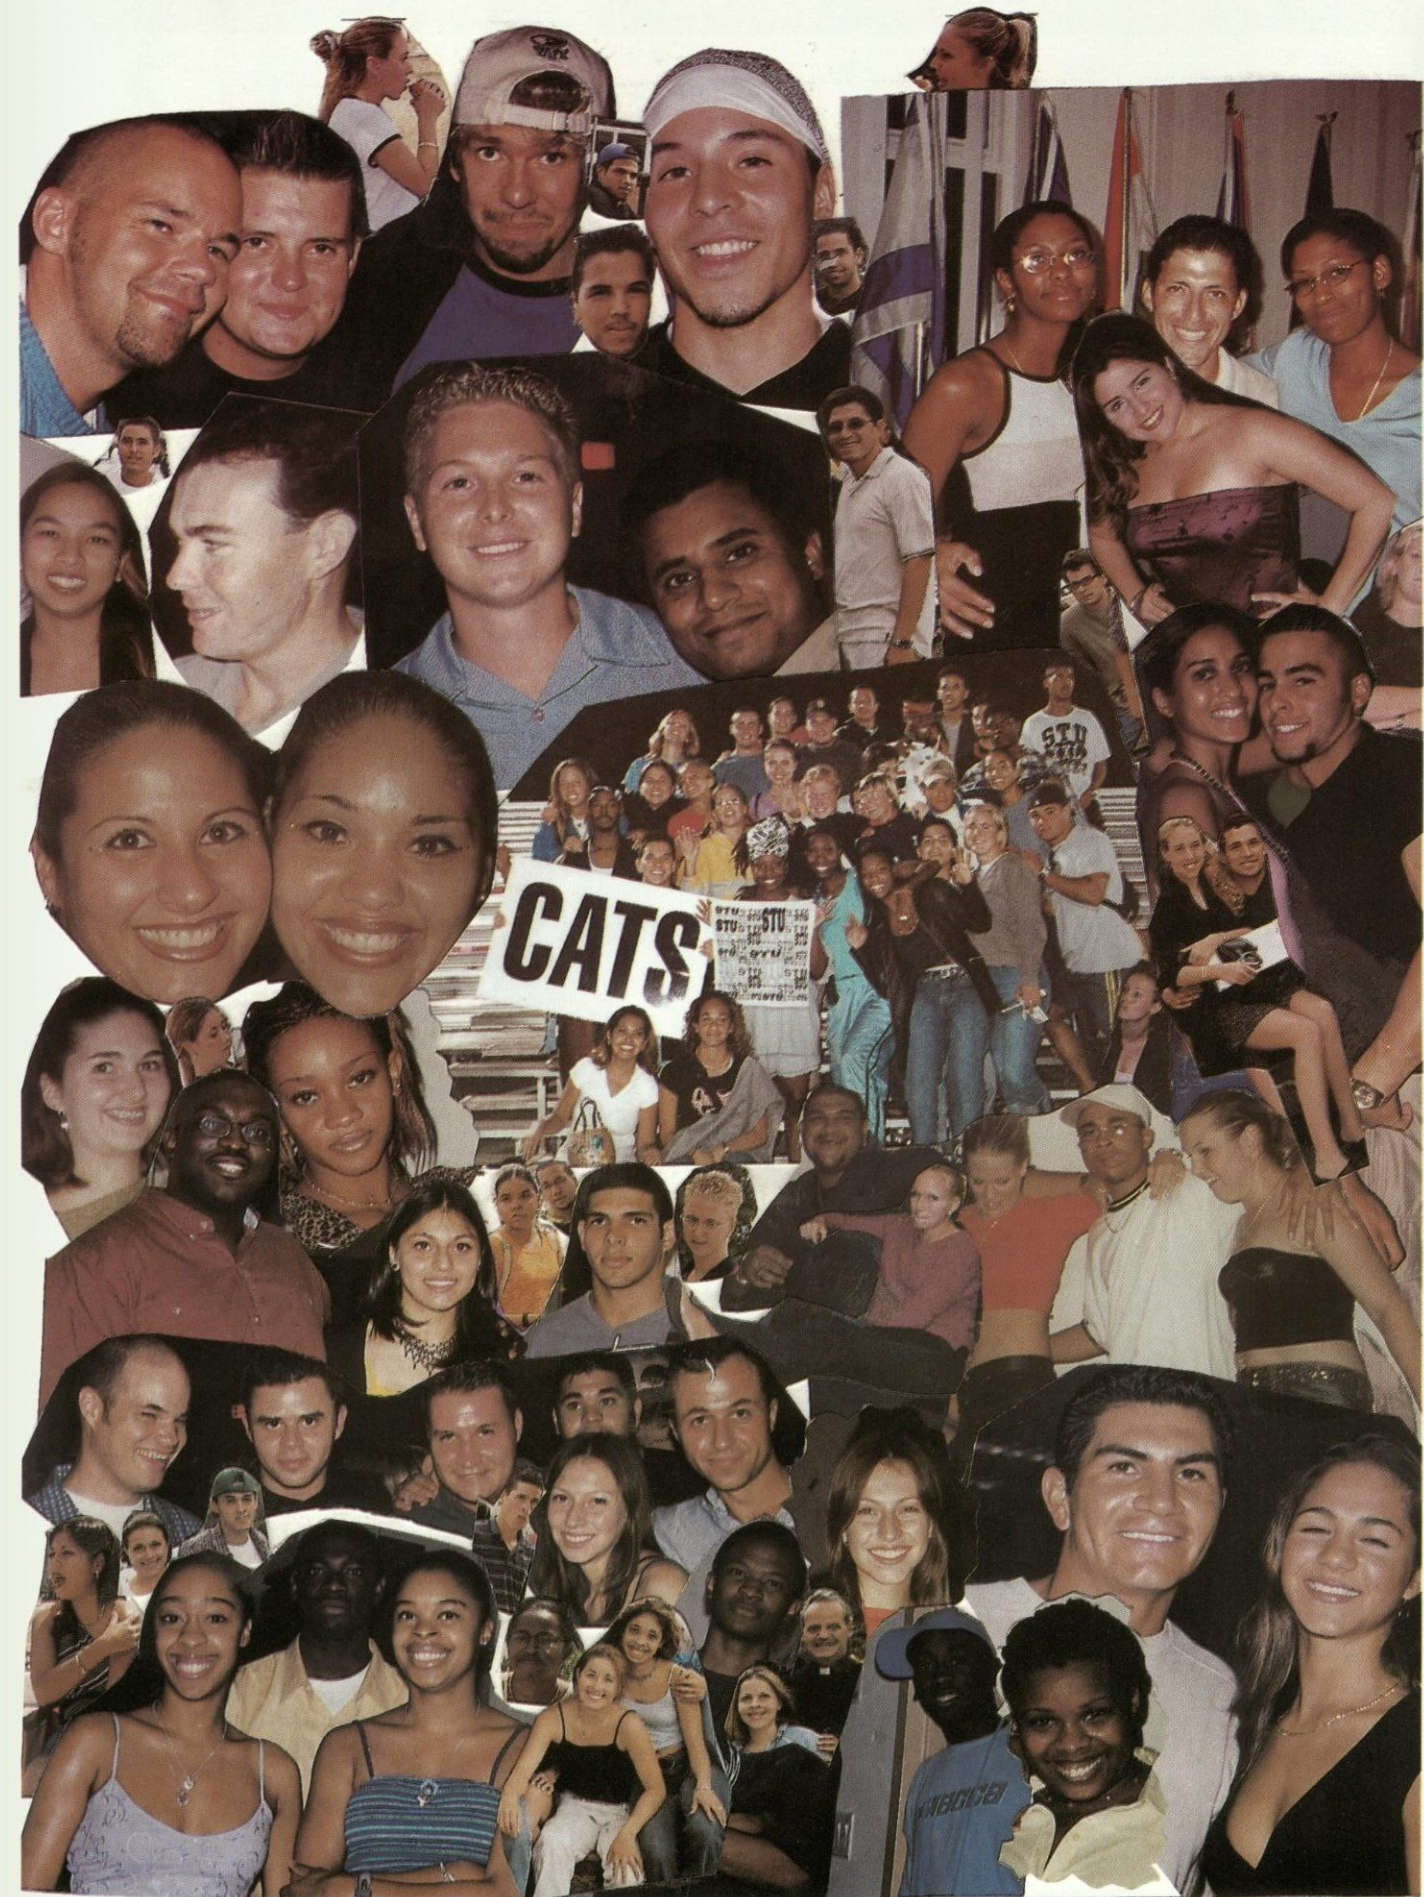

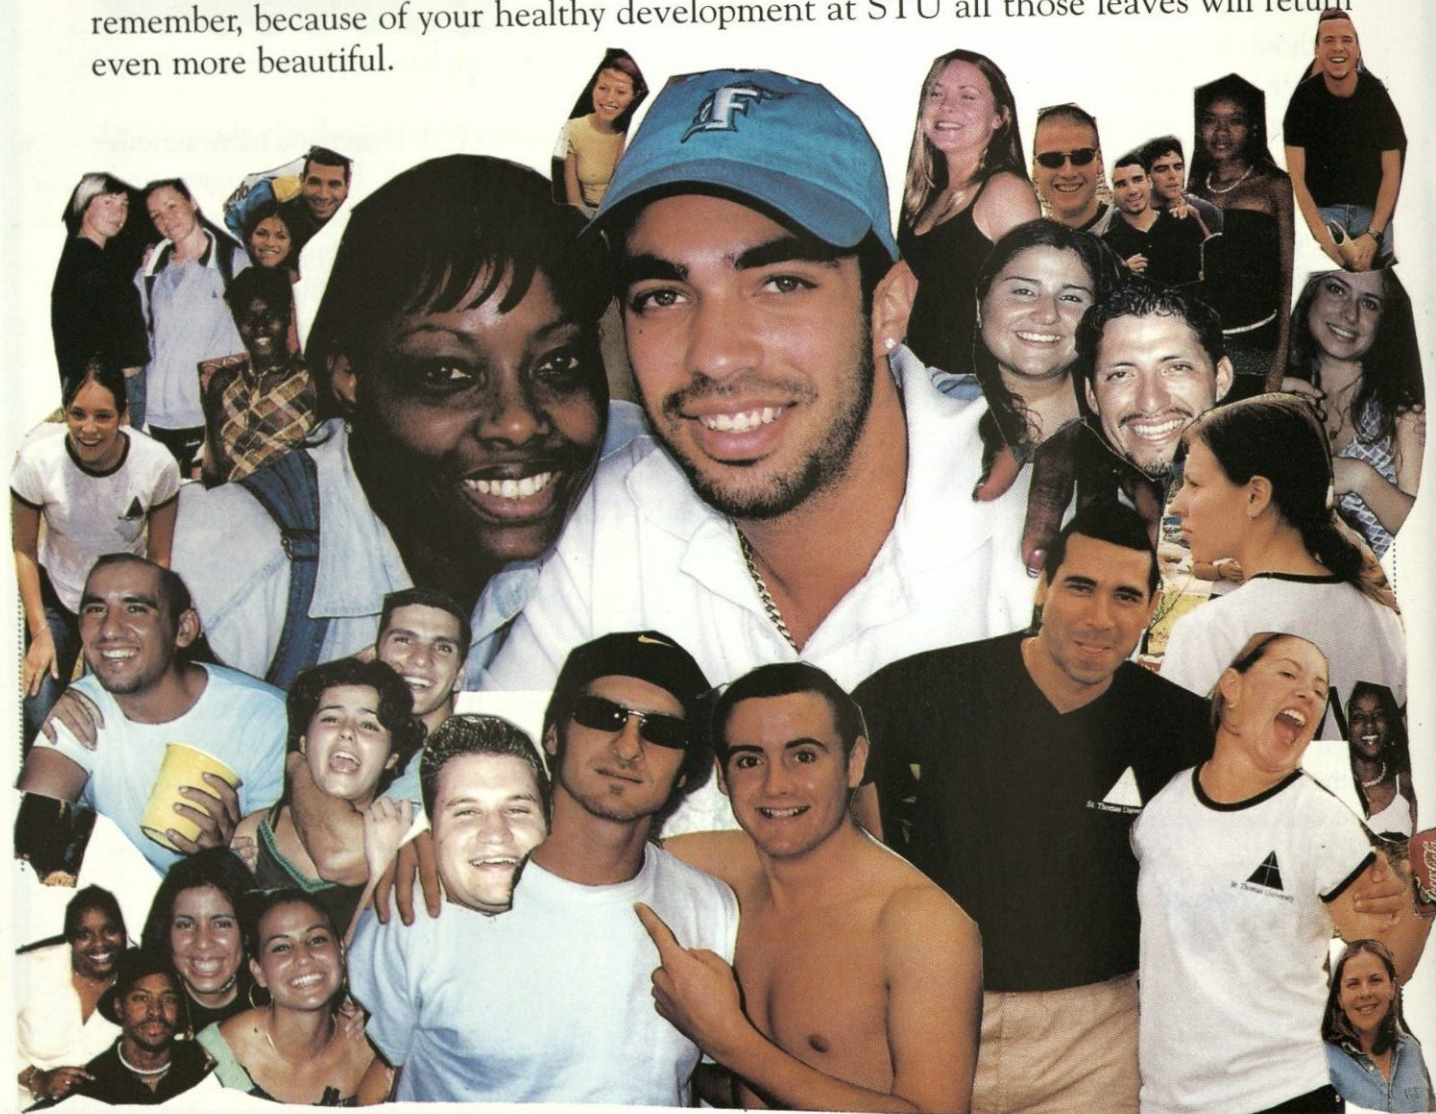

STU Faces of Diversity

Here at St. Thomas University, we are proud of our diversity. We acknowledge and appreciate the interests and passions of both faculty and students. We generate within this small college community a world of IDEAS that catapults beyond the limits of society. Ideas that embrace the eloquence of poetry and literature, with the grace of art, music, politics, history, and science. By exploring all realms of the mind, we explore questions, theories, and most of all ourselves.

For this reason, the theme of this year's LOGOS yearbook is Diversity. The tree on the cover represents how we the student's have grown through our years at STU. The roots are where we developed and as more rings are added to the trunk we lead to who we are, different branches all shapes and colors, which are essential to the life that leads the tree to flourish and bloom.

As you turn the pages of this LOGOS, count the leaves you are shedding and remember, because of your healthy development at STU all those leaves will return even more beautiful.

April Art Gallery Opening

The artwork as expressed by Fr. Sardiñas is an installation. An installation is also know as an arrangement of works, and objects within a space. Fr. Sardiñas chose computer images, oil paintings, and other objects to express a type of medication about being a priest. For this reason he named the exhibition "Man of the Cloth" representative of the phrase given to members of the clergy.

Who was James O'Mailia?

O'Mailia, for the current STU student, is most likely abuilding were most of the business and religion classes are taught, or the top competitive scholarship that involvesfull coverage in tuition, books, and room and board for a period of two years. But for some individuals, like professor Raleigh or Dr. Conley, O'Mailia was better known as Jimmy, their colleague and friend. James O'Mailia was born in Midland, Pennsylvania on November 20th 1915. He graduated from Canisus College in 1939. He served overseas with the US Army during World War II. After an honorable discharge, O'Mailia travel to Lima-Peru where he received his degree at the oldest university of America: Universidad de San Marcos. It was at this time were he met the love of his live, Yolanda. After married, the O'mailia family moved to Havana-Cuba. Almost a decade after moving to Cuba and while he was currently teaching English at St. Thomas of Villanova (after the Bay of Pigs invasion), he was arrested with several members of the faculty of the university. After surviving three months of imprisonment under inhuman conditions at a Cuban jail, he moved to Miami to meet his family and continued his doctrine at Biscayne College (now St. Thomas). O'Mailia taught English, Spanish, Speech, and Business Writing at St. Thomas. He held every significant position including Director of Admissions, Academic Dean, Chairman of the faculty Forum, and Chairman of the Tenure Committee. O'Mailia or Mr. O as his students remember, was the soul of St. Thomas life. He was the one that started the pool, the rat, and several inter-dormitory parties (as some people remember: The best Host a party can have). He was one of the most beloved teachers of all time. The classroom for O'Mailia, as professor Raleigh remembers, "was what fresh mountain air after a hard climb or a chord from a Debussy nocturne or a million dollars in the bank might be to some other man." James O'Mailia died of a heart attack in 1984. One of his last words before he left St. Thomas were "If teaching was the best thing to do, Biscayne was the best place to do it." James O'Mailia died, but his spirit is still alive and will remain in the St. Thomas community to continue touching the souls of all of us as long as St. Thomas University or Biscayne college exists. By: Isaac Robles (O'Mailia Scholarship recipient (2000-2002) Students: There is a tape of Professor James O'Mailia teaching about life. It is available in the Media Center. It is something that every St. Thomas student should listen at least once before living the school.

In Memoriam of John H. Bradley

By Susan Smith

Founder of the tourism and hospitality program at STU, Dr. Bradley spent a total of 31 years between STU and Universidad de Santo Thomas de Villanueva in Cuba. Having grown up in Conyers, GA, he attended the University of Georgia for his undergraduate degree in business. He first went to Cuba in 1950 to obtain his masters' degree from Villanueva. After graduating, he remained at Villanueva as professor of English until Castro's forces closed the university in 1961. Arrested on the day of the Bay of Pigs invasion, Bradley spent three months in prison along with another STU/Villanueva professor Dr. James O'Mailia. Together with 150 other prisoners, they slept on the floor of the prison dungeons. "Afterwards I Couldn't Sleep in a bed for a long time", said Dr. Bradley. He remained in Cuba until 1962. When he realized there would be no immediate change in the political situation, he moved with family to Kingston, Jamaica to teach at the college of Art, Science and Technology. In 1968 he joined the Jamaica Tourist Board and spend the next ten years traveling throughout the island promoting tourist attractions. This experience led him to begin STU's Tourism and Hospitality Management program when he arrived in 1978. He was eventually appointed chair of the Department of Business Administration. Dr. Bradley died by cancer soon after his retirement in the year 2000.

"To An Athlete Dying Young" A.E. Housman In Loving Memory of Freddy Batista

On March 2, 2001 we lost one of our own due to a tragic motorcycle accident. Freddy Batista the 22-year-old freshman Bobcat pitcher left behind his 2-year-old daughter Destinee, his wife Karina, loving family, friends, and a devoted STU baseball team. Thanks to the time he shared with those around him, it has inspired others to live and succeed for him and his memory. May you rest in peace Freddy. We will never forget you.

I have never seen such a horrible sight. Everything was blown towards the starboard side and mangled. There were people pinned against the walls, body parts in and under metal.
