SCENES OF ORDINATIONS IN ROME, IRELAND, OHIO AND MIAMI

Diocese To Gain 9 New Priests

CUBAN YOUTHS whose parents are still in communist controlled Cuba receive the blessing of Bishop Coleman F. Carroll following the dedication of a new school building erected especially for their education on the grounds at Camp Matecumbe in South Dade County.

Nine newly-ordained priests will be assigned this summer to serve in parishes and missions throughout the Diocese of Miami.

Bishop Coleman F. Carroll will officiate at the rites of ordination for five young men at 11 a.m., Saturday, June 1, in the Cathedral when the Sacrament of Holy Orders will be conferred on four ordinands for the Diocese of Miami and one for the Archdiocese of Havana.

Two more diocesan priests will be ordained for South Florida during rites in Ireland and in Worthington, Ohio.

Two members of the same class were ordained last December in Rome and Ireland.

During the Sacred rites of ordination in the Cathedral the Sacrament of Holy Orders will be conferred on Father Arthur R. DeBevoise, Father Donald J. Ireland, Father William C. O'Connell, and Father Jack L. Totty for the Diocese of Miami and on Father Ernesto Garcia-Rubio for the Archdiocese of Havana.

Father Gary R. Steibel will be ordained for the Diocese of Miami by Archbishop Egidio Vagnozzi, Apostolic Delegate to the United States, on Saturday May 25, at the Pontifical College Josephinum in Worthington, Ohio.

Father Kevin MacGabhann, of Dublin, will be ordained in June at St. John College, Waterford.

Father Charles Zinn, of Fort Lauderdale, who was ordained last December at Christ the King Church in Rome, has been continuing his studies there and will return home next month. Father Thomas P. Hanly, or-

WILL BE THIRD PRESIDENT TO CALL ON A PONTIFF

Kennedy To Visit Pope John

WASHINGTON — Announcement that President Kennedy will visit Pope John XXIII next month has revived interest here in previous meetings between U. S. chief executives and Roman pontiffs.

President Kennedy will become the third president of the U. S. to call upon a pope while in office. One other president visited a pope before entering the White House, and three others visited pontiffs after their presidential terms expired.

Incumbent president entertained at his family home in this country a Roman cardinal who later became pope.

Confirmation that Mr. Kennedy will meet with Pope John came from White House sources. The meeting will take place during a presidential working visit to Italy, expected to begin June 20.

As the nation's first Roman Catholic president, Mr. Kennedy will be making history by calling on Pope John.

It is not yet known whether the visit will take place at the Vatican or at the Pope's summer residence at Castelgandolfo. Details of the visit are to be worked out by a White House advance party going to Italy May 27.

During his European tour next month the President will visit West Germany and Ireland as well as Italy. Mr. Kennedy is to return to the U. S. June 29.

The two previous U. S. chief executives who have met with a pope while in office are Woodrow Wilson, who visited Pope Benedict XV in 1919, and Dwight D. Eisenhower, who visited Pope John in 1959.

MORE THAN 500 AT NEW GUILD'S COMMUNION BREAKFAST

Teachers Told of Responsibility

Next to parents, teachers have the greatest opportunity to cement in the minds of the young a commitment to the issues of truth, justice, freedom, and charity, members of the new Catholic Teachers' Guild of the Diocese of Miami were told Sunday.

More than 500 teachers from public, private and parochial schools assisted at Pontifical Low Mass offered at 10 a.m. by Bishop Coleman F. Carroll in the Cathedral. The sermon was preached by Father Francis X. Canfield, professor of English at Sacred Heart Seminary, Detroit, and president of the National Catholic Library Association.

During the Communion breakfast which followed at the Dupont Plaza Hotel in downtown Miami, Bishop Carroll told the lay teachers that the primary purpose of the new guild is to make them better Catholics and give them a better understanding of the spiritual.

"The responsibility of educating children is primarily that of the parents," Bishop Carroll said, "and you assist the parents in fulfilling that responsibility.

"We have at the present time about 50 per cent of our Catholic children in elementary-public schools and about 75 per cent in public high schools," Bishop Carroll continued. "I am definitely interested in their schooling.

"As citizens, I and you, should be vitally interested in the public schools. We should be anxious to see that they are the

Pope On Retreat; His Health Guarded

VATICAN CITY (NC) — Pope John XXIII was expected to withdraw from all but the most pressing demands of his office so that he could go on a spiritual retreat in preparation for the feast of Pentecost.

There was no official announcement, but Vatican authorities said that Pope John would go on retreat.

Word of his pending withdrawal followed rumors to the effect that he had had a new attack of illness. But no authoritative comment about the Pope's health was available.

The week before the feast of the Ascension he had canceled for two days all private audiences and regularly scheduled conferences.

Pope John's Wednesday general audience was canceled less than an hour before it was scheduled to begin. But the Pope appeared at an apartment window overlooking St. Peter's Square and told a disappointed crowd of 10,000 that "it is still St. Peter's, whether inside or out."

He led the recitation of Regina Coeli and gave his apostolic blessing. The Pope looked drawn, but spoke in a firm voice.

Pope John's planned retreat would not only allow him a period of special prayer, but would also free him from the burden of audiences and routine business.

His retreat was to coincide with the pre-Pentecost novena to the Holy Spirit to implore Christian unity.

Vatican Council To Speak On Peace, War

By BILL FANNING

NEW YORK (NC) — The Second Vatican Council will speak out on peace and war, Leo Cardinal Suenens, Archbishop of Malines - Brussels, Belgium, has disclosed.

Cardinal Suenens, here to address a meeting of the U. S. committee for the United Nations on the recent papal peace encyclical Pacem in Terris, said the council will deal with peace and war in a special schema on vital world problems.

This schema will take up such issues as population, hunger, race, the developing nations, the Church and the individual, the Church and culture, and the Church and social and economic affairs, he said in an interview.

The Cardinal is head of the commission drafting this schema.

PRESS COVERAGE

Cardinal Suenens also said he sees "no reason" why newsmen should not be admitted to at least some sessions of the council.

He said the council Fathers are "now studying how to make it (arrangements for press coverage) better in the next session."

One idea under consideration, he said, is to have one or more bishops meet with newsmen daily and discuss what is taking place in the council.

Cardinal Suenens was asked whether Pope John had advocated unilateral disarmament in his peace encyclical, in the event that both sides could not be persuaded to disarm. He replied:

"No. In Pope John's view both sides must disarm."

QUITE IMPORTANT

The Belgian Cardinal spoke at length of the need for making the Church's message more intelligible to the modern world. He interpreted the division of the council Fathers at the first session over the question of the sources of Revelation in these terms, saying:

"It was largely a question of how to express ourselves. Some stressed the need of underlining principles in all things and of saying exactly has always been said.

"Some wanted to say things so that all can understand them properly. These are differences over modes of expression and such things can be quite important."

LAYMAN'S ROLE

He said it is "always important" that the Church express itself effectively but "today it is more important than ever."

"There are so many misunderstandings," he said. "Words change so easily in meaning. And today so many people do not understand religious affairs . . . Matters of religion must be expressed to them very clearly and exactly and in some detail if they are to understand what we are talking about."

Cardinal Suenens stressed that laymen must have a more active role in the Church.

"We must emphasize that the lay person has not only the role of helping the priest materially, but of helping him in his spiritual role, too," he said.

"The layman must share in spreading the kingdom of God in the world."

'Passive Catholics' Called Chief Problem Of Church

NOTRE DAME, Ind. (NC) — Belgium's Leo Cardinal Suenens declared here that the main problem facing the Church is "to make passive Catholics active."

Catholics have no right, he said, "simply to accept their faith, but must give it to others."

Speaking at an outdoor University of Notre Dame convocation, the Archbishop of Malines-Brussels said Christians have a duty "to know God and to make Him known, to love God and to make Him loved, to serve God and to make Him served."

Cardinal Suenens spoke at the grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes on the campus after receiving an honorary doctor of laws degree from Father Theodore M. Hesburgh, C.S.C., Notre Dame president.

Once a hostage slated for execution by the nazis, he was cited as "a valorous fighter and almost martyr for truth, freedom and justice."

"No man alive," the citation declared, "better understands the meaning, force and charity" of Pope John XXIII's recent peace encyclical Pacem in Terris.

The Belgian Cardinal, who spoke on the encyclical earlier at the United Nations headquarters in New York, described it as "an open letter from the Pope to the universe."

The U.N. he said, is the "first step" toward peace and order in the world, "but we must go further."

He pictured the Pope as serene despite the monumental problems facing the world and his own burdens:

He quoted Pope John as saying recently: "Some people prefer to complicate simple things; I prefer to simplify complicated things."

Cardinal Suenens termed the Second Vatican Council "one of the most important councils in history."

Sacred Heart School Grads Are Greeted By President

WASHINGTON (NC) — President Kennedy surprised alumnae of schools of the Religious of the Sacred Heart by unexpectedly appearing to greet them during a White House tour.

Noting that his mother, three sisters and two sisters-in-law were Sacred Heart graduates, the President joked that he was used to having alumnae around, but never as many at one time.

Some 600 delegates to the 14th biennial conference of the Associated Alumnae of the Sacred Heart were touring the White House.

Among those present were Mrs. Fred Snite Jr. and Mrs. Francis J. Reed, both of Miami Beach and members of the Carrollton Alumnae Association, a chapter of the Associated Alumnae of the Sacred Heart.

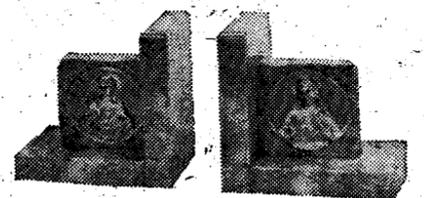

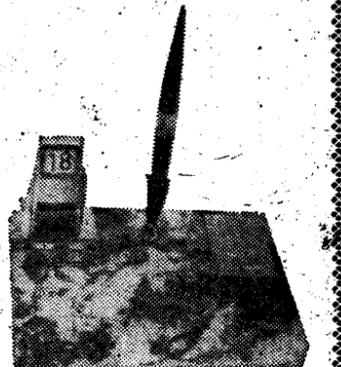

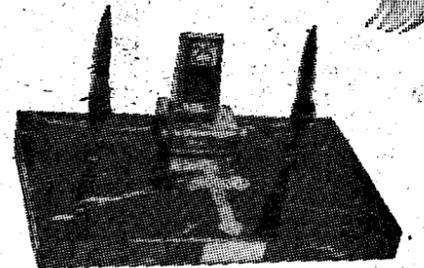

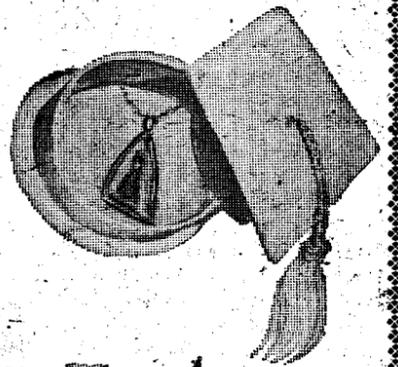

Mr. Kennedy suddenly walked out of a side door as the women were filing out of the Executive Mansion's State Dining Room. One woman was so surprised that she burst into tears.

The President said he hoped the White House would give the women a greater appreciation of their country's history as he said it had given him.

NEA Blasted By Goldwater At College Aid Bill Hearing

WASHINGTON (NC) — The Senate education subcommittee received several proposals for U.S. aid to higher education in hearings last week.

It also heard from three opponents of assistance for education in church-related schools. They were the American Humanist Association, the Unitarian Fellowship for Social Justice and Protestants and Other Americans United for Separation of Church and State.

Headed by Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, the subcommittee recessed for a week and will pick up hearings again during the week of May 27.

Focal point of the sessions has been President Kennedy's 24-proposal "omnibus" bill which would aid all levels of education. The measure already has been cut up by the House Education Committee which has approved a separate bill for aid to public and private colleges.

In the meantime, the National Education Association reported that a pamphlet which drew angry charges from Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona is out of print.

Goldwater, who opposes U.S. aid to education, charged the powerful association with distributing a "subversive document" when it reprinted an editorial from the Hutchinson (Kan.) News. The editorial said that the aid to education controversy is "a struggle between people with wealth and people with kids."

As Robert H. Wyatt, NEA president-elect, sat in the witness chair, Goldwater waved the pamphlet and charged that it "could have been printed in the Daily Worker. It is anti-American. It is subversive."

Goldwater read into the subcommittee's record a portion of the pamphlet which said that "the traditional foes (of Federal aid) have been helped this year by such strange bedfellows as Sen. J. Strom Thurmond (of South Carolina) who is afraid the Negroes will get in and Cardinal Spellman who is afraid that the Catholics will be left out."

The NEA, an 815,000-member organization whose voice is one of the most influential on education legislation, said later it had distributed 11,000 copies of the pamphlet last Fall.

In testimony from college spokesmen, the subcommittee heard Logan Wilson, president of the American Council on Education, support Federal assistance for all types of institutions, public, church-related and independent.

The three groups which opposed aid to private institutions all struck the same theme: their concept of separation of Church and State demands that education in church-related institutions be denied assistance.

The spokesmen for the Humanist Association was Roy R. Torcaso of Wheaton, Md., a principal figure in a major decision of the U.S. Supreme Court related to Church-State relations.

Torcaso, who in 1961 called himself an atheist, refused to take an oath as a Maryland notary public because it required a declaration of belief in God's existence. The Supreme Court struck down this required declaration on June 19, 1961.

Bus-Rides-For-All Backers Fear Missouri Referendum

ST. LOUIS (NC) — Advocates of tax-paid school bus transportation for parochial school pupils reported themselves far from happy over the proposal to put the controversial issue up to a statewide vote.

They said the referendum is likely to result in rejection of the bus rides unless there is a massive education effort. A major obstacle would be the heavily anti-Catholic prejudices in rural areas, they added.

"Such a failure, they predicted, would effectively kill the school bus issue for years to come.

They were asked for comment on a constitutional amendment introduced in the Missouri House of Representatives. It calls for voters in the 1964 balloting to decide whether the Department of Public Health and Welfare should establish a system of state aid for tax-paid transportation of children in private and parochial schools.

One observer of the recent maneuvers on the bus issue, the hottest potato in the current legislative session, said that "putting the idea up to a vote should get everyone off the hook."

"It will please the Catholics in St. Louis and Jackson (Kansas City) counties because they can vote for the issue and it won't offend the folks outstate because they know they will be able to vote it down."

The vote idea was proposed by a St. Louis legislator, Thomas A. Walsh, following statewide protests by Catholic parents over the death of a bill to let private school pupils share in tax-paid school bus transportation.

Ribicoff Gives 6 Proposals For Aid To Private Schools

WASHINGTON (NC) — Sen. Abraham Ribicoff has presented the Senate with a six-point program to aid education in church-related schools and extinguish what he called smoldering religious controversy.

The Connecticut legislator said his two-year stint as President Kennedy's first Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare taught him the "depths of the feelings and strength of the convictions involved."

"But I firmly believe," he said in the Senate, "that the effort must be made to resolve this controversy."

Ribicoff's statement comes almost one full year after he stirred nationwide comment with a similar declaration.

BASIS FOR ACTION

In June, 1962, speaking as HEW Secretary, he told a television news panel show that he thought it possible to aid education given in parochial and other private schools.

In his Senate speech, Ribicoff made these proposals as a basis for action:

1. Income tax deductions of up to $1,500 per college student and $100 per student for private school expenses.
2. Public financing of shared-time arrangements whereby private school pupils could use some public school facilities. For each private school pupil using public school space and equipment, states would get half the allotment proposed for full-time public school students.
3. Assistance for special purposes. "In elementary and secondary schools, there is a wide range of permissible aid in selective areas such as math, science and foreign language teaching . . . We should explore . . . classroom construction."
4. Broadening present programs of teacher training for all teachers, including those in private schools. "Why not provide scholarships which would enable promising teachers to return to universities for a year of advanced study?"
5. Furnishing auxiliary services of direct benefit to the child, such as school lunches and bus transportation.
6. Aiding all types of higher education. "I am entirely satisfied that public funds may be used broadly without constitutional question."

Ribicoff said that private school students number more than 15 per cent of all students in the elementary grades, 11 per cent in the secondary grades and 33 per cent in higher education.

ARE PERMISSIBLE

"It is a fact," he said, "that these children, in these numbers, attend private and church-related schools. It is a fact that their parents have exercised the right to send their children to these schools, in preference to available public education."

"It is a fact that the education of each of these children means just as much to the strength and future of this nation as the education of every child in a public school."

Turning to constitutional issues, Ribicoff said too much had been heard from extremists.

"There is agreement both that the Constitution does place some outer limits on the use of public funds for private education and that there is a range of activity within these limits where some forms of public assistance are permissible.

ASSISTANCE SOUGHT

"The exact point at which the constitutional limitations apply is not clear. But disagreement over the outer limits should not foreclose full consideration of all possibilities within the area of generally agreed constitutionality," he said.

Ribicoff said some people think that private schools should be financed exactly like public schools. "But this is not the prevailing view of those who seek some assistance for private and church-related schools," he noted.

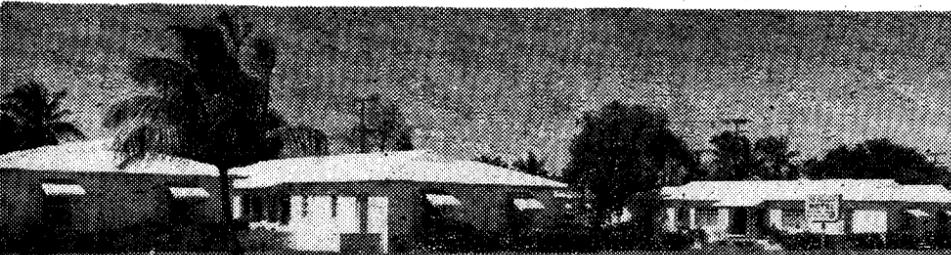

"Most proponents of aid to private education have forthrightly recognized that public funds ought not to be used for religious teaching; their proposals have been designed to exclude an expenditure for this purpose.

"Of course, there is much dispute on all sides as to what constitutes support of religious teaching. But that is no reason to ignore the agreement on the underlying principle: assistance is being sought for non-religious aspects of private education."

Silence Cloaks Latest Moves To Free Cardinal Mindszenty

ROME (NC) — No quick solution is likely in the case of Jozsef Cardinal Mindszenty, according to the Austrian cardinal who saw him in Budapest in mid-April and has arrived here to report on their interview to Church authorities.

Franziskus Cardinal Koenig, Archbishop of Vienna, told newsmen on his arrival that many factors are involved in Church-State negotiations in Red Hungary concerning the possible departure of the Hungarian Primate from the U.S. legation there.

But Cardinal Koenig, who met the press briefly at the Rome airport, said the negotiations about Cardinal Mindszenty are "the business of the Vatican" and declined to comment on his role in them.

UNUSUAL SECURITY

Asked to give his opinion about the possible future arrival of Cardinal Mindszenty in Rome, he said only: "I do not believe there will be a rapid solution."

Shortly before Cardinal Koenig's arrival, a high Vatican official returned here from Budapest where he conferred with Church and State authorities. The arrival of Msgr. Agostina Casaroli, Undersecretary for Extraordinary Ecclesiastical Affairs in the Papal Secretariat of State, was surrounded at the Rome airport with unusual security measures, which led several news agencies to report mistakenly that Cardinal Mindszenty had arrived here.

Monsignor Casaroli has seen no newsmen and has made no comment on his Budapest activities.

CONFLICTING REPORTS

The arrival of the two prelates in the face of conflicting reports from Hungary has touched off renewed speculation about the terms of the possible departure of the Hungarian primate from the U.S. legation.

But absolute silence is being maintained by all Vatican officials who have termed the matter "very delicate" and who have been unwilling to risk upsetting any possible understandings by premature comment.

Reports from Budapest said an agreement had been reached that would allow the Cardinal to come to Rome. Parties to the agreement, reports said, were communist Hungary, the Holy See and the U.S.

REPORTS DENIED

The following day a Hungarian government source reportedly denied knowledge of such an agreement and a U.S. legation spokesman stated that the legation had not taken part in any negotiations with the Church or Hungarian government authorities.

Other reports reaching here from Vienna and Budapest centered on stories that Cardinal Mindszenty has set certain conditions for his leaving the legation.

The Cardinal is understood here to be strongly opposed to leaving his country before receiving firm assurances from the communist regime that it will relax its stranglehold on the Church.

Speculation on Cardinal Mindszenty's fate has been building up for the past month.

The Cardinal, now 71, entered the American legation in Budapest on November 4, 1956 — a refugee from Soviet forces quelling Hungary's short-lived rebellion against communist government. Anticommunists had freed the Cardinal only four days earlier from the jail where he was serving a life sentence.

FOUR POSSIBILITIES

There appear to be only four possibilities in the future for Cardinal Mindszenty.

● He could be restored to his See and permitted to govern it under the same difficulties and restrictions which hamper the other bishops in the country. The likelihood of this outcome is slight.

Priests, Nuns Join Strike Against Guiana Leftists

PORT-OF-SPAIN, Trinidad (NC) — Priests and Sisters have joined in the general strike against Premier Cheddi Jagan's leftist regime in British Guiana, according to word received here on a fishing vessel from that country.

Normal communications between British Guiana and the outside world have been disrupted by the strike.

The striking Religious are members of two teachers' unions that are affiliated with the British Guiana Trades Union Council, which called the strike. The Catholic Standard, publication of the Georgetown diocese, has also accepted the strike call and has responded to requests from its printers by suspending publication.

The Guiana strike is a protest against a labor relations measure being promoted by the Jagan government.

The Church in British Guiana has long been at odds with the Jagan regime, particularly over its efforts to secularize education.

Space Flight A Milestone In Man's Quest For Truth

In the midst of all the excitement and admiration generated by the remarkable flight of Major Gordon Cooper into space, it came as a surprise to hear more than a few people express a dim view of the whole affair by posing the question, "What good is it doing? What's it prove?" The unexpected query reminds us that it's a matter of historical record that Christopher Columbus heard the very same tune, only it was much more strident in his day since it was coupled with the prediction that he and his men in ships would surely fall off the edge of the flat earth.

A few years ago Pope Pius XII answered this very question about the value of space exploration with this beautiful thought: "Through new and broader avenues, humanity is advancing, but always like a pilgrim, towards deeper knowledge of the laws of the explored or unexplored universe, as it is spurred on by the natural thirst for truth."

And Pope John XXIII has indicated on several occasions his profound interest in the space projects. He stated publicly that he had prayed not only for Major Cooper recently, but also for the Russian cosmonaut last summer, because he sees in these flights a potential "contribution to brotherhood and civilization."

These extraordinary efforts are certainly a tribute to the human spirit in its restless desire to push beyond the confines of the earth. This should not be too hard for Christians to understand. As human beings, according to the convictions of our faith, we are not made for this earth. We can never be fully satisfied with what we find here, simply because God has designed the human heart to seek the Infinite. Long ago St. Augustine expressed it: "Thou hast made us for Thyself, O Lord, and our hearts are restless until they rest in Thee."

This restlessness of man, so vibrant a part of his nature, drives him on to find truth on this earth, in space, throughout the universe, because in seeking knowledge, he is following the impulse of his nature to seek the Summum Verum, the Truth which is God Himself.

Incidentally, by way of contrast with the strong religious convictions of both John Glenn and Gordon Cooper, we remember the pathetically flip, childish remark of the Russian cosmonaut, Andrian Nikolayev, namely that he did not see God in space, which is about as strong as any argument the communists have ever given for their atheism.

Congratulations, Monsignor

People in every section of Florida will rejoice to learn that Msgr. Patrick J. O'Donoghue, the Vicar General of the Diocese of Miami, is about to observe the silver jubilee of his ordination to the holy priesthood.

Wherever they are in the State, they are well aware that in the past 25 years, Monsignor O'Donoghue has been anything but a passive spectator to the vast transformation of the Church in Florida. He has merited the praise of his fellow priests and people alike as one of the Church's zealous, untiring workers in meeting the spiritual and material challenges of this unique, vigorous community.

When Monsignor O'Donoghue first arrived in Miami in 1938 there were only four parishes in Dade County. Today there are 29. When he was assisting the late Msgr. Thomas Comber in pastoral duties in Coral Gables, as a newly ordained priest, vast sections of South and North Miami slumbered like barren fields awaiting the touch of another generation. In the unexpected enormous changes that took place in this area during some of those years, it is his joy to realize now that he had an important and memorable part.

Monsignor O'Donoghue obviously was destined to travel in the fulfillment of his vocation. Studies took him from Ireland to the Lateran University in Rome. Once he was in Florida, appointments turned him from Miami to Arcadia, then further north on the west coast to the responsibility of erecting a new parish in St. Petersburg Beach, then full circle back to Miami again where he built St. Mary Church, later to be designated as the Cathedral Church of the new Diocese of Miami.

In all these years and changes, Monsignor O'Donoghue has served God and the Church well. His parishioners in various parts of Florida and his countless friends will always remember him gratefully for his zealous concern for their interests, for his good-natured approach to their problems for his loyalty and dedication to the Church.

We join with them in offering him hearty congratulations and every blessing of God. Ad Multos Annos.

To Our Parents, Teachers

Now that school bells are ringing out the final summons for this year, thousands of our young people are ready to join the ranks of graduates at all levels of Catholic education, elementary, high school, college.

While reflecting how much they merit praise and congratulations for their years of study and application to duty, we cannot help but wonder where they would be without their dedicated teachers — priests, brothers, sisters, and, in increasingly significant numbers, members of the laity.

Surely it would be difficult to find a more dedicated, self-sacrificing group of people than those who have patiently labored with the young and the slow and the inattentive in order to set them firmly on the path of knowledge or those who have been training the more mature to take their places in the turbulent society of today.

But again such reflection poses a further question, namely, where would our teachers and pupils be had not the Catholic school system been made possible by the extraordinary efforts and sacrifices of Catholic parents?

In the ascending scale of congratulations at the end of this school year, justice demands that we come up with final praise for the thousands of mothers and fathers who have gone to such remarkable lengths to assume the burden of building our schools and supporting them, even while fulfilling their duty to aid and promote the public school system.

This most impressive story of sacrifice can be told only because so many parents have come to realize, as Msgr. George Johnson put it years ago, the purpose of education is "to change people, to make them different than they were before."

These Catholic parents want their children to gain knowledge indeed, but more than that they want them to grow in self control, to mature spiritually, to remember always throughout life that they are children of God.

We offer our congratulations to pupils, teachers and parents. Together they form the Catholic school system, a phenomenon which wins our admiration more with the end of each school year.

Director of Diocesan Cemeteries

Memorial Day, 1963, recalls for the faithful the solicitude manifested by the Church through the centuries in caring for the last resting place of our beloved dead and in the remembrance of them through our prayers.

From the days of the first Roman catacombs, the Church has a carefully paid special reverence to the bodies of the faithful because these bodies have served as temples of the Holy Spirit, have been nourished by the Sacred Body and Blood of the Savior, and are destined for reunion with immortal souls for all eternity.

This traditional reverence of the Church always has been a source of consolation and of reassurance to Catholics. The sorrow of their loss is made lighter by the knowledge that their dead have been buried in ground blessed and consecrated to the service of God, even as the Church itself is consecrated to the service of God.

The Catholic cemetery had its first beginning at the foot of the Cross when Joseph of Arimathea the Church itself is consecrated tomb for the burial of Christ.

When the Apostles left the Supper Room on the first Pentecost Sunday to begin the spread of Christ's Kingdom, they carried with them well-defined ideas concerning the burial of those who died in the Faith. In the first four centuries after the death of Christ, the Church at Rome provided more than 500 miles of catacombs, underground caves for the burial of the dead.

It is estimated that more than 1,700,000 Christians were buried in these hallowed resting places.

The early Christians realized, as do we, that the body, although it is no longer joined to the soul as in life, still is a temple of the Holy Ghost. Because of that belief, they risked their own lives to obtain the bodies of those who had been martyred so that those relics of the saints might be properly enshrined.

The same care and solicitude for the mortal remains of one of the members of Christ's Mystical Body prompts the attention which is given to Catholic cemeteries today. The cemetery as a resting place for the mortal remains of Christ's followers has always been under the care of the Catholic Church.

From earliest times, the cemetery has been called "God's Acre." This is to remind us that it is consecrated to God in a special way and that there the bodies of the saints await that glorious reunion with their souls which Christ has promised at the end of time.

In cemeteries of the Church lie the bodies of countless numbers of uncanonized saints.

Many are known only to God, but that does not lessen their sanctity nor their place in Heaven nor the honor which we accord them by our visits and our prayers. The body is destined to rise glorified on the Day of Judgment.

Burial in a cemetery which is Catholic surely is the most appropriate conclusion to the ceremonies which the Church usually accords the dead. Having received the grace of Extreme Unction, the benefit of a Mass of Requiem and final blessing, the deceased is laid to rest in the company of other members of the Mystical Body.

Thereafter he is remembered in prayers each time another burial takes place in the cemetery. These are recited by the priest officiating at the graveside. The deceased is remembered, too, in the prayers of all visitors in all the years to come.

In the Diocese of Miami, the proper care of the dead has been one of the greatest concerns, with the result that although the Diocese is not yet five years old, it already has two fine cemeteries. One is Our Lady of Mercy, serving parishes of all Dade County, and located just four and one-half miles west of Miami International Airport at 11411 North West 25th St. The other is Queen of Heaven, serving the parishes of Broward County and located four and one-half miles north of Sunrise Blvd., at 1500 South State Road No. 7, Pompano Beach.

In both cemeteries there have been more than 1,300 burials, including seven priests and three nuns. In Our Lady of Mercy Cemetery there have been five entombed in the temporary crypt awaiting construction of the new Our Lady of Mercy Mausoleum.

Outdoor Masses will be offered at both cemeteries on Memorial Day, Thursday, May 30, for the repose of the souls of all those buried there. The outdoor Memorial Day Masses are traditional, as also are those offered each year on All Souls Day.

It is a holy and a wholesome thought to pray for the dead. So, too, is it an honor, a privilege and an obligation to bury our dead in a Catholic cemetery.

Pope John XXIII prayed that Astronaut Gordon Cooper would have "real success" during his recent space flight.

While the Air Force major was still in orbit (May 16), Pope John said in Rome: "We follow them (space flights) with prayers of blessing. We wish them real success that they may be a contribution to brotherhood and civilization."

Grace-Christ's Marvelous Gift To Mankind

AN ALTAR BOY NAMED "SPECK"

By Msgr. JAMES J. WALSH

Time and again since the Ecumenical Council began, we have heard that one of its aims will be to make ancient Christian truths more clear, more understandable for non-Catholics.

MSGR. WALSH

The preparation for the coming feast of Pentecost reminds us that one of the most com-expressions used by Catholics makes hardly any sense to non-Catholics. We frequently use the phrase, "the state of grace." A confused non-Catholic thus may hear that a person might be in the state of grace or out of it, that he has lost it or regained it, that nothing matters so much as keeping in it. One man who heard two Catholics discussing the state of grace wondered if they were talking about good health.

He was far closer to the truth than he realized. The soul in the state of grace is assuredly in good health, because grace is actually the life of the soul.

THE 'NEW LIFE'

Hence, when we say a soul is the state of grace, we mean that it is alive, truly alive with the supernatural life of God. When the soul has lost grace, we mean that it is spiritually dead, that a serious sin has separated it from God and therefore destroyed its life.

This is the "new life" Our Lord was referring to when He spoke of the necessity of Baptism: "Unless a man be born again of water and the Holy Ghost, he cannot enter into the Kingdom of Heaven."

What makes grace different from anything else is the fact that it is a share in the life of God Himself. It is nothing less than a created participation in the Divine Nature, a marvelous gift far beyond any natural talent or power which a human being may lay claim to.

LIFE OF SOUL

Indeed Christ summed up the purpose of His coming to earth in the few words that indicate the necessity and importance of grace: "I am come that you may have life and have it more abundantly."

Now He does not mean here surely the life of the body. We already have that. He is calling attention to the peculiar life of the soul. Hence it is no exaggeration to say that the Son of God became man, died on the cross and founded His Church for the purpose of enabling human beings to receive sanctifying grace and to preserve it until death.

The sacrament of Baptism figures largely in this plan. It is the divine means of putting us in the state of grace for the first time. In this sacrament the Holy Spirit comes into the soul and makes it His temple.

ENORMOUS CHANGES

St. Augustine says, "The Holy Spirit dwells primarily in the soul and gives it its true life; and since the soul is in the body, the Holy Ghost dwells therefore in our bodies."

The advantages of being in the state of grace are beyond the powers of description. Think of these enormous changes wrought within us by grace — we become sharers of the Divine Nature, children of God, heirs of heaven and members of God's family. It is grace that St. John is talking about when he said we have been given the "power to become the sons of God." It is truly a supernatural power that enables us to live the supernatural life of heaven hereafter.

SPIRITUAL SUICIDE

However, as we well know this most precious gift of grace can be lost. The soul of the Christian is not immune to death as long as the trial of life lasts. And the strange thing is that no one can destroy the life of my soul except myself.

The evil spirits of hell have incredible powers, but they are too weak to take away the life of grace. The best they can do is urge me furiously to commit spiritual suicide. Nor are there any enemies on earth capable of separating my soul from God, thereby causing its death. They too can merely encourage me to do the deed myself.

This points up the wonderful protections God has given me for this most precious of all gifts. I am safe from all enemies — except myself. For the only way I can lose the state of grace is my own deliberate decision to separate myself from God. I can only do this by offending God in a serious way. Hence, it is so clear why mortal sin is so called — deadly.

The coming of the Holy Ghost with His very special grace of Pentecost reminds us most impressively of the necessity of safeguarding the treasure of grace. And this is the reason for the year round stress on frequent confession and Holy Communion. These channels of divine grace cannot be overrated. The sacrament of Penance is the divine remedy for restoring the supernatural life of Christ to a soul dead through mortal sin. Holy Communion is the greatest means of increasing the life of grace in the soul and the best guarantee of never losing it.

U.S. Migrant Workers Need More Protection Under Law

By MSGR. GEORGE G. HIGGINS

The Reporter magazine recently took notice of what certain church groups are doing to try to improve the lot of migratory farm workers in the United States.

MSGR. HIGGINS

"Being the constituents of no one in particular," The Reporter remarked in an editorial note, "the migrant workers depend as much on the seriousness of 'do-good' lobbies as they do on the seriousness of 'do-good' Congressmen."

MAJOR STEP

The Reporter's favorable reference to the National Catholic Welfare Conference is appreciated, but those of us at NCWC (and counterparts in other national Catholic organizations) who are most directly involved in the problem of migratory labor know that we have hardly scratched the surface of the migratory labor problem.

Perhaps the most important single step that should be taken right away to improve the lot of migratory farm workers would be for the Congress to repeal Public Law 78 under which tens of thousands of Mexican farm workers are brought into the United States every year in competition with our own domestic agricultural workers.

Representatives of all three major religious faiths have asked Congress to allow Public Law 78 to expire on Dec. 31, 1963. They are convinced that the program is extremely harmful to American farm workers and small farm operators.

"ADVERSE EFFECT"

Public Law 78 was first enacted in 1951 as a temporary measure to bring Mexican farm workers to American growers. Less than two per cent of American farms use the Mexicans, known as braceros. These are often large corporation type farms. In 1962, 227,000 braceros were contracted and recontracted.

The mass importation of foreign workers is one of the major reasons why American farm workers, the poorest work group in the United States, were able to earn an average of only $881 in agriculture during all of 1961 and were able to obtain only 134 days of farm work in the entire year.

Although P.L. 78 seeks to provide against "adverse effect" to domestic farm workers, the importation has kept down their farm wages and limited their employment opportunities. The existence of the program prevents the law of supply and demand from operating in setting farm wages in the bracero-using areas.

PRODUCES POVERTY

A bracero-seeking grower offers work at perhaps 60 cents an hour in Arkansas. If the wage is inadequate to attract farm workers, he does not have to raise the pay. He simply tells the Federal Government that he cannot get farm labor, and asks for braceros from Mexico. The poverty of northern Mexico is so great that braceros are available at these wages.

Our One Purpose In Living: To Love God

By FATHER LEO J. TRESE

The whole spiritual life, as we know, can be summed up in the single phrase, "Love God!"

It is for this that God made us that we might love Him.

FATHER TRESE

There is no other reason for our existence. It is love for God, too, which equips us for the ecstasy of face-to-face union with God in heaven. Without love, a soul could be in the midst of heaven and still be in hell.

Such a soul could be surrounded by God, by angels and saints, and be totally unaware of their presence. A soul without charity soul without spiritual vision — a soul totally blind.

It is fortunate that God, in baptism, has infused the virtue of charity into our souls, has given us a talent for loving Him. It is not easy to love someone whom we never have seen. It is especially difficult when our love for the unseen God conflicts with our desire for some lesser but visible good. The truth is that, without God's help, we really could not love Him at all.

On the face of it, it seems a great mystery why our love should mean so much to God. In our honest moments we have to admit that our love, at best, is very imperfect.

GOD'S WORLD

There is a good bit of self-interest intermixed even with our most disinterested loves: our love for spouse, for parent, for child, for brother or sister. It may illumine the mystery a bit if we examine what we might call the "anatomy" of our love for God.

In baptism, the greatest thing which happened to us is that we were made one with Christ; incorporated with Christ is the theological expression. We were united with Christ in a way which our human mind cannot quite fathom.

Christ shared with us His Spirit of divine love. There is no example adequate to illustrate the nature of our union with Jesus.

The closest that we can come by way of parallel is to imagine the intimacy of union that would exist between two humans who shared one and the same soul between them. In a sense, each would be the other. Similarly, after baptism there is a sense in which you are Christ and Christ is you.

SPIRITUAL MERGER

Our spiritual merger with Jesus does not destroy our personal freedom. With our cooperation, however, it does make it possible for Jesus to act in and through us. This He does, most especially, in our act of love for God. Our own act of love consists simply in identifying our will with God's. What God wants is what we want. Our love is expressed in our obedience to God's law, an obedience which involves the sacrifice of self.

Our obedience, our act of self-renunciation, creates a clear channel through which which Christ's own love can go, through us to the Father. Our personal love, at its best, is ridiculously weak. But our

Father Charles Ward Gets Doctor Of Theology Degree

Father Charles F. Ward, assistant chancellor of the Diocese of Miami, has been awarded the degree of Doctor of Sacred Theology by the Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C.

The Miami priest recently completed a course of study at the university and in partial fulfillment of requirements for the degree, he presented a dissertation on "Two Recent Theories on the Finality of Extreme Unction."

In a precis soon to be released by Catholic University, Father Ward points out that agreement among Catholic theologians was signally complete until recently on the fundamental purposes and over-all effect of Extreme Unction.

"Indeed, few theological concepts have ever been more commonly shared," he wrote, "than that which designates this sacrament as 'the consummation of the entire Christian life' and 'immediate preparation for glory' . . . The current century, however, has witnessed the appearance of two new theories on the finality of Extreme Unction, which either radically expand or altogether discard the Scholastic notion of anointing as preparation for eternity."

Hist study, Father Ward says, was undertaken to examine each of these theories, and he continues:

"The 'Total Remission of Temporal Punishment' theory, advanced by Father Joseph Kern, S.J., in 1907, assumes that Extreme Unction is the divinely appointed antidote to purgatory. From this it follows that normally — per se — the total debt of temporal punishment must be cancelled through anointing. And the Council of Trent is held to have confirmed this very view, by declaring that Extreme Unction removes the remains of sin; for these are said to include temporal punishment. But it can be shown that neither Trent nor Tradition goes this far. Whenever Extreme Unction remits temporal punishment totally, it therefore does so only per accidens.

"Inexorably opposed to the concept which links anointing to death and eternity are the 'Sacrament of the Sick' theorists, who see Extreme Unction as having to do rather with the state of sickness considered precisely as sickness. Serious illness is undoubtedly required for valid anointing, but no concomitant danger of death. Viaticum is the Sacrament of the Dying; Extreme Unction is the Sacrament of the Sick. And Trent is alleged to have upheld this more ancient, and surer, tradition, by refusing to define that Extreme Unction is exclu-

"It can be conceded that the early Church very probably lacked explicit awareness of Extreme Unction's preparation-for-glory role. On the other hand, the solemn rite of Anointing was almost certainly reserved for the gravely ill, even anciently.

"The danger-of-death requirement would therefore have been complied with in actual practice. In time, the doctrine underlying the practice would have grown increasingly more explicit.

Eventually, the Council of Trent would be able to teach that Extreme Unction is the sacrament which fortifies the end of life.

"In this broad and basic sense, it is thus the Sacrament of the Dying; it is thus also properly called Extreme Unction. For this reason, too, a true danger of death — which need be neither imminent nor even proximate — is postulated for valid, as well as licit, anointing.

"But if Extreme Unction is essentially the Sacrament of the Dying, it is likewise — though subordinately — the Sacrament of the Sick. Which is to say that its effect upon the organism as such is, by no means limited to instances of total bodily cure."

Father Ward's major professor at Catholic University was Father Emmanuel Doronzo, O.M.I., internationally-recognized authority on the Sacraments.

Father Ward was born in Mobile, Ala., where his mother, Mrs. Helen C. Ward, still resides, along with a brother and two sisters. He attended St. Paul school, Jacksonville, and later St. Bernard Minor Seminary, Culman, Ala.

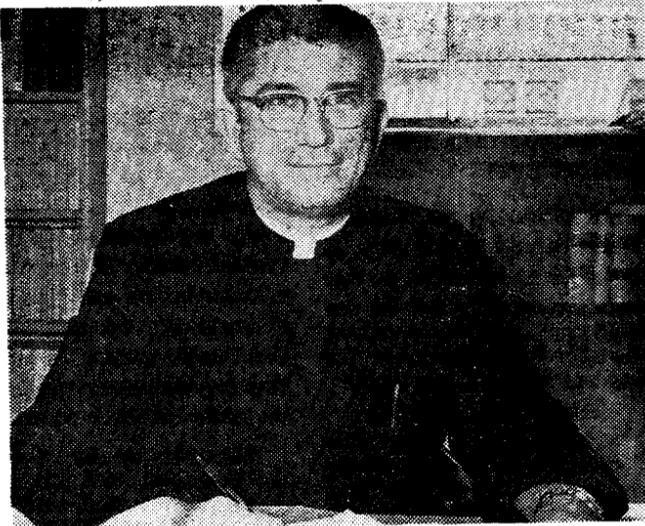

He was a student at Catholic University of America seven years, receiving a master's degree in philosophy.

Father Ward was ordained May 22, 1948, at St. Paul Church, Jacksonville, by Bishop Thomas J. McDonough, now Bishop of Savannah, Ga., but then the Auxiliary Bishop of St. Augustine.

In 1949 he went to Rome for post-graduate work at the Gregorian University, and was awarded there a degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

Returning to Florida, Father Ward served successively at St. Michael Church, Miami; St. Paul High School, St. Petersburg; St. Francis Xavier Church, Fort Myers; Christ the King Church, Tampa; Corpus Christi Church, Miami; Archbishop Curley High School; St. John Church, Hialeah, and St. Hugh Church, Coconut Grove, where he was pastor.

He is now in residence at St. Joseph Church rectory, Miami Beach.

A WORD TO THE RICH:

"He Who was rich became poor for our sakes that we might become rich." St. Paul applies these words to Our Lord, Who emptied Himself of the glory of His Divinity to make us spiritually impoverished souls rich in His grace. And that same Lord made you rich in a material sense. Oh yes, you worked hard, or you guarded your inheritances, or you invested well, but the Lord is still the first cause of your wealth. "What have you that you have not received?"

It is much easier for you to save your soul than a famished "fella" in Egypt or a miserable cliff-dweller in a Latin America "favella." You can give in Christ's Name. But the poor have to sink down into the depths of their souls and make an act of resignation and submission to God's Will. You say you are generous? You boast that you gave $100,000 to build a $3,000,000 church or $250,000 to construct a library? Fine! But are you really satisfied with what you have done, or were you "pressurized" by agents, public relations officials or drive "hatchetmen?" Did you give supernaturally or did you give naturally? Did it profit you for eternity or did it give you a bronze plaque in time?

Measure your gifts with the rules that Our Lord lay down for giving:

1) Our Lord said we should give to the poor. When you are ready to make a distribution, "call in not the rich, but the poor." He meant that you should treat the disinherited of the world as though their need was not a stigma but a claim. The needy catechists in Korea, the impoverished priests of Rhodesia — these are the men to benefit in the light of the life to come!

2) Our Lord said we should give anonymously: "Do not let thy left hand know what thy right hand is doing." Ever notice how much more you give when you "subscribe" than when there is a collection? The ego wants satisfaction in the first instance. Beggars always carry tin cups because the giver gets a ring of satisfaction as he hears his coin jingle in the cup. But the Lord wants complete anonymity; He would have your gift take wings so you could never see where it went.

3) Our Lord said we should give to the poor because "they have nothing to repay thee with; for thou shalt be repaid at the resurrection of the poor." The rich could repay you, honor you, put you on a board, but the poor can do nothing. Therefore, the Lord will have to reward you. The saddest words in Sacred Scripture are: "Thou hast already received thy reward."

Those of you who are rich and who want to give to the poor of the world so that no one else but the Vicar of Christ makes the distribution, write to me. I will reply personally to help you save souls.

GOD LOVE YOU TO S.B. for $70 "This is my first pay check from my first place of employment." . . . to Mrs. A for $2 "To help the poor of the world and beg prayers for a fallen-away son." . . . to E.B. for $20 "After graduation, several girls are spending a weekend at the shore. I would rather you use the money I had saved to send missionaries abroad." . . . to a South Dakotan for $35 "For the Holy Father to use as he judges best."

Catholic Teachers' Guild Told Of Responsibility

best schools possible, just as we are anxious to see that the Catholic schools are good schools. As citizens, Catholics support the public schools, and as citizens they should be encouraged to be vitally interested in the success of both school systems."

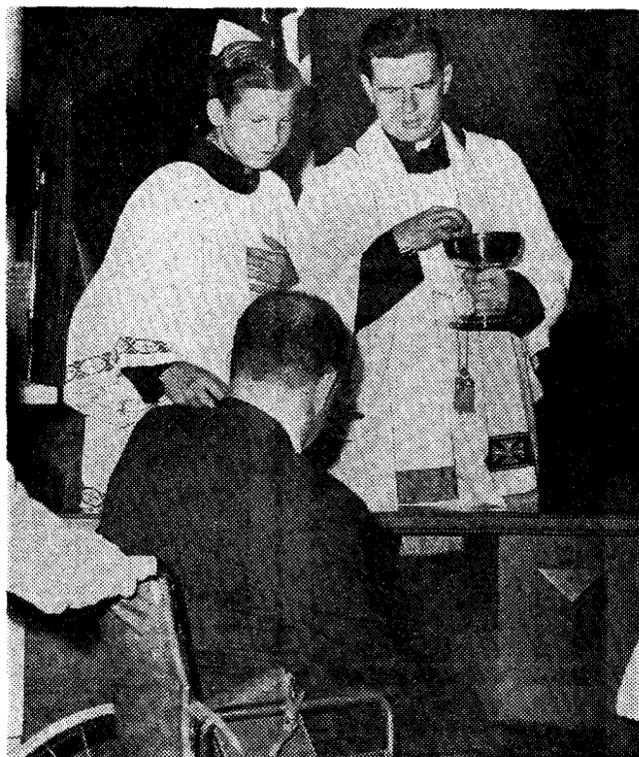

A 'SHINING LIGHT'

Pointing out to the teachers, many of whom teach in public schools, that they have a very "important work and grave responsibility," Bishop Carroll advised the men and women that, "you have an obligation to fulfill this responsibility to the best of your ability and to carry out the responsibility entrusted to you.

"If you are to exercise influence that you should, it is very important that you be regarded in the community as a person who has been entrusted with a very important work and responsibility. If that is your due you must measure up to that in the eyes of those around you. There is a necessity of your being a 'shining light' in the community," Bishop Carroll said.

WORTHY MOTIVES

During the Mass, Father Canfield told the educators from MATH INSTRUCTOR, Robert Munley, a member of the faculty at Christopher Columbus High School prepares to receive Holy Communion from Father Donald F. X. Connolly.

all levels that "since Sputnik, American society has taken a new interest in teachers and education. For the most part, the motives are quite pragmatic. If we don't produce better scientists and technicians than the communists, than we face defeat.

"The defense of family and country, the continued development of our economy, the preparation of young people to take their place in a highly skilled and technological society — these are worthy enough motives. But while we come to grips with the realities of life today, let us not ignore the values that give life its order and purpose. We must add not merely years to life, but life to our years."

Emphasizing that secularism permeates more and more the national life, Father Canfield said that Christians must recognize their responsibility to be witness to the Gospel. "If we are complete, dedicated, Christians," the priest-educator told the congregation, "then our very lives must be testimony to spiritual values and moral principles.

4 MAJOR NEEDS

"The Catholic teacher in the public school will not proselytize. He will not try to advance the spiritual interests of the visible Church. He will not flaunt his faith before the unbelieving. The responsible Catholic will always respect the sacred right of conscience.

"But both public and parochial school teachers will recognize an obligation and an opportunity to promote the very values that our society needs most today," Father Canfield declared.

Pointing out that in Pacem In Terris, Pope John stresses the four major needs of contemporary society as truth, justice, charity and freedom, Father Canfield said, "Truth is not a mere matter of isolated facts. Truth, on one level, is the correspondence of man's words with his mind. On another, it is the harmony of his mind with the objective order of things as they exist in reality.

"But to achieve that harmony of mind and reality, the teacher must lead the student to think through the maze of facts and Phenomena and try to reach the underlying order and purpose that God has implanted in all of reality. Justice demands that we give every man his due. It means that we respect his right to private property, to his good name, to a proper wage.

"Pope John urged, too, that the dignity of human nature requires that every man exercise the right to act freely and responsibly," Father Canfield continued. "And in all things he urges charity, for St. Paul reminds us that of all the virtues charity indeed is the greatest.

"If the teacher is professionally competent, if he has control over his matter, above all if he is conscious of his duty to bear witness to Christ, then he will recognize the opportunities to make these great values a controlling influence in the lives of his pupils.

"In doing that work," Father Canfield concluded, "he will enrich beyond measure the impressionable mind of the young. And he will thus enrich society for years to come. For what can make for a responsible citizen better than truth, justice, charity and freedom? It is your vocation as professional teachers, as loyal Americans, and as witnesses to the Gospel to reinforce and if necessary introduce into the lives of your students these great forces."

Prepare To Be Leaders, Cuban Youth Told

Unaccompanied Cuban youths whose parents are still in communist-controlled Cuba were urged by Bishop Coleman F.

Carroll Sunday to deepen and strengthen their faith and to acquire the truth and learning which will prepare them to one day assume positions of leadership among their people.

Bishop Carroll spoke to hundreds of Cuban teenagers at Camp Matecumbe in South Dade County following the blessing of a new four-classroom school building erected on the diocesan property for the education of the youths now under the direct care of the Miami Catholic Welfare Bureau.

while others are forced to attend government, atheistic schools in Cuba.

"American priests," Bishop Carroll added, "have given of their time, their zeal, and their devotion to try to provide for you all these things which are necessary if you are to receive a continuation of a Catholic education. Real love and real charity prompted so many to be of assistance," Bishop Carroll said, declaring that when a member of the Mystical Body is suffering, that suffering is felt by all.

"Your sentiments should be primarily those of gratitude to Almighty God who in His goodness spared you the lot that some of your friends in Cuba were not spared," the Bishop continued. "Some are in Russia today; some are forced to attend godless schools.

"While you have much to thank God for, much is expected of each and every one of you," Bishop Carroll said. "You have been able to get out from under the heel of the tyrant. You now have the opportunity to deepen and strengthen your faith; to acquire these truths and that learning which in time, we hope, will make you ready for positions of leadership among your people. You have an unusual and challenging opportunity. By your example when and if you return to Cuba, you can show what it is to be a conscientious and intelligent member of Christ's Church. Thank God and show your gratitude by being a real apostle in the future.

During his sermon, Father Del Busto told the congregation, which included Christian and Marist Brothers and Sisters of St. Philip Neri who supervise the activities of the Cuban children, that the dedication of a school for youths who have had to be separated from their parents and their country because of persecution is something that "is very touching because of the cruel contrast between the evil of some men and the kindness of others."

"No one as you, my dear young people, have experienced this," the Cuban born priest said. "When you decided to leave your country, you only knew that the Catholic Church would not abandon you and that there was a Bishop waiting in the new land to take care of you and protect you. Because we know that several thousand Cuban youths have been through this camp, we are well able to evaluate the efforts of the Diocese of Miami and of the Catholic Welfare Bureau.

"We Cubans have found in Bishop Carroll the pastor, who besides satisfying our spiritual and material needs, has been the most firm and constant defender and the best friend of the Cuban cause," Father Del Busto declared, expressing the gratitude of the boys and their families not only to Bishop Carroll but also to Monsignor Fitzpatrick and Monsignor Walsh.

A dialogue Mass was offered at 4 p.m. by Msgr. John J. Fitzpatrick, assistant chancellor and director of the Diocese of Miami Spanish-speaking Apostolate, at an outdoor altar erected for the occasion at one end of the new school building. Msgr. Bryan O. Walsh, director of the Catholic Welfare Bureau lead the boys in responses and the sermon was preached by Father Eugenio Del Busto.

Pointing out to the young men that both their parents in Cuba and the faithful in the Diocese of Miami had made sacrifices to save them from life in a communist regime and to provide the young refugees with the necessary facilities in this country, Bishop Carroll reminded the boys that many of their former associates had been sent by the Castro regime to Russia

Adults Will Be Confirmed June 2 In The Cathedral

Adults in the Diocese of Miami who have not yet been confirmed may receive the Sacrament of Confirmation during 3 p.m. ceremonies Sunday, June 2 in the Cathedral.

Bishop Coleman F. Carroll will confer the Sacrament on any resident Catholic above high school age and who has the written permission of his pastor for himself and a sponsor. Candidates may choose their own sponsors and pastors will notify the Cathedral rectory a few days in advance of the ceremonies as to the names of those to be confirmed and also forward the other information necessary to receive the Sacrament.

Since it is one of the most important of the seven Sacraments, the Sacrament of Confirmation should be received by all Catholics.

Through Confirmation the Holy Ghost comes in a special way to the soul enabling Christians to profess their faith strongly and perfectly as adult soldiers of Christ.

Those wishing to be confirmed may obtain complete details from their respective pastors.

"AW, SHUCKS... WE BLUSH, BUT WE'RE PROUD OF THIS LETTER" (unsolicited)

14811 N.E. 5th Ave.
North Miami

Dear Mr. Scalzo,

Realizing that in most cases the only time you hear from a customer is when they have a complaint to make, I have decided to reverse this trend and write you a letter of commendation.

In December of 1960, your company cleaned and painted the roof of my residence. While I could have had the job done at a much lower price, I am a firm believer that one gets what he pays for and if you want quality and satisfaction, you must pay for it. At that time the job was done to my complete satisfaction, even to the cleaning of the walks, shrubs, building walls, etc.

Last October, I noticed a few mildew and fungus spots on the lower edge of the roof. A call to your office resulted in the condition being taken care of in a few days.

As a result of this prompt attention by your company, I recommended you to my neighbor and a friend in Fort Lauderdale. They have both had their roofs done by your company and, like myself, are very satisfied with the results.

Last week, much to my surprise, one of your trucks with four men drove up to my home and informed me that they were going to check over the condition of my roof. There appeared to me to be nothing wrong with it, but after looking it over, they stated that some of the tile edges were discolored as was the edge of the roof. They corrected whatever they found wrong and, as on the original job, washed down the shrubs, walks, etc. when they were finished.

This last visit and check-up, entirely unsolicited by me, prompted me to take this time to let you know how much I appreciate the attention given me by your company.

In this day and age of inscrupulous competition, it is indeed rare to find a company such as yours who realize that the best recommendation is a satisfied customer.

Please feel free to use this letter in any way you deem necessary. Thanking you once more, I remain,

Sincerely,
John C. Deickmann

CYO's To Observe Youth Adoration Day June 2

Parish CYO's in the Diocese are being urged to take part in the observance of National Youth Adoration Day on Pentecost Sunday, June 2.

Father Walter J. Dockerill, director of youth activities for the Diocese suggested that CYO units observe the day by spending a half-hour of adoration before the Blessed Sacrament in addition to corporate Communion.

Father Dockerill said the spiritual intentions for Youth Adoration Day are three-fold:

1. That the Ecumenical Council will successfully interpret the Divine Will,
2. That there will be an increase of priestly and religious vocations, and

3. That more of our youth will receive Holy Communion daily and thus bring them closer to Our Lord in the Blessed Sacrament.

Observance of Youth Adoration Day is sponsored by the National Catholic Organization with the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

Msgr. Frederick J. Stevenson, director of the NCWC Youth Department, said that "in this time of unusual stress upon youth's moral resources, it is specially fitting that Youth Adoration Day's intentions concern so specifically the spiritual foundations of our young Catholics."

The monsignor announced in Washington that materials for use on the day's observance are available from the National CYO Federation, 1312 Massachusetts Ave., N.W., Washington, 5, D.C.

More Than 100 Boys Qualify For Ad Altare Dei Awards

More than 100 Boy Scouts will receive the Ad Altare Dei Award in ceremonies at the Cathedral on Sunday, June 9, according to Harold Guittard, diocesan lay chairman of Catholic Scouting.

Also to be presented on the same ceremony will be the Marian Awards for Girl Scouts.

All Cub Scouts who have received the "Parvuli Dei" (Little One of God) award have been invited to attend.

One of the highlights of the program will be the colorful parade of flags by the Scout Troops.

In order to be eligible for the Ad Altare Dei medal a Scout must display a knowledge of his religion and perform a service for his Church.

The applicant for the award is first approved by his parish and then goes before a deanery board of review which tests him on his knowledge of his faith.

Purposes of the medal have been outlined by the Catholic Committee on Scouting and Catholic Boy in Scouting as:

Encouraging the Scout's advance in religion and in the service of God.

To help the Scout live his oath and law,

And to afford the Scout the opportunity for closer guidance from his pastor or Catholic Scout chaplain.

The Ad Altare Dei award is sponsored in the Diocese by the Father Andrew Brown General Assembly, Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus which will also provide a color guard for the ceremonies at the Cathedral.

Convention Dates Changed For State Columbian Squires

The dates for the third annual convention of the Columbian Squires originally scheduled June 7-9 at the Fontainebleau Hotel have been changed to June 14-16.

John F. Tracy, state Squires chairman for the Knights of Columbus, said the change in dates had resulted from a conflict with another convention previously booked at the hotel.

The convention program calls for a state banquet, a teen dance, a Corporate Communion and breakfast, election of officers and a bowling tournament.

St. James CYO Has Election Of Officers

John Hammes is the new president of the St. James parish CYO.

Other officers elected to serve with Hammes are: Mary Migliaccio, vice president; Elizabeth Fisher, secretary, and John McDowell, treasurer.

The Squires will attend Mass at St. Patrick Church Sunday, June 15. A Communion breakfast will follow at the Hotel.

Among the awards to be presented during the convention are the following: Publicity Chairman of the Year; Squire of the Year; Counsellor of the Year; Notary of the Year; Essay Contest Winner and Best Circle Scrapbook.

Nomination of officers will take place at the first business session on the opening day of the convention. Each Circle in the state will be allowed four delegates who will cast votes and serve on committees. They are the Chief Squire, deputy chief squire and two other at-large delegates.

A training session for Squire counsellors will be held all day Saturday, June 16 conducted by National Director William L. Piedmont.

Mr. Tracy urged that each Squire counsellor and anyone interested in working with our Catholic youth make an effort to attend the training school.

Silver Knight Award Winner Looks To Science Career

Lee Miller Brown, Jr., one of the 12 high school students in Dade County who won the Miami Herald's Silver Knight awards, is a convert of six months to the Catholic faith. Lee is a senior at Mays High School in Goulds.

Lee found his way into the Church, said Father Richard J. Swift, S. S. J., pastor of Perrine's Christ the King Church which Lee attends, by reading Catholic books.

Lee became convinced, said Father Swift, that the Catholic religion was "best for him."

Lee's father and mother both are members of the Methodist Church. Mr. Brown is a barber and Mrs. Brown is a secretary at Mays High. The Browns reside at 14400 Tyler St.

A younger brother of Lee's, Columbus, also is taking instructions, Father Swift said. Columbus is a 10th grade student. The Browns have two other children, Barbara, in the 11th grade, and Kevin, age three.

Lee has hopes of attending a Catholic university this fall. His attendance would depend on whether or not he received a scholarship.

Lee won his Silver Knight award for being judged tops in the science category. The 17-year-old's interest in science stems from as early as the sixth grade, when he got his first science kit.

"Ever since I can remember," said Mrs. Brown, "Lee has always wanted something he could tinker with."

MAY QUEEN in St. Michael parish was Maryann Heiser, shown above with Rosalie Palermo, Marlina Saco, and crown bearer, Helen Wilkie.

The Glee Club members are attending a dinner in their honor on May 27 commemorating the success of their concert. "Scenes in Song," the theme of the concert, will also be used for the decorations. As their special guests, the Club invited Mrs. Bernadette Darling, accompanist at their concerts, and Miss Barbara Rassel, choreographer.

The Senior Class attended a Mass recently at Annunciation Church, specially offered for them by the Freshmen. A breakfast followed as the younger sisters of Madonna bade farewell to the eldest members of the family who have less than a week of school left.

Madonna girls enjoyed their annual end-of-school picnic at Greynolds Park recently.

"Senior dress-up tag day" was initiated earlier this month as each Senior came to school arrayed in her Sunday finery. The Seniors enjoyed the day thoroughly but there were moans of anguish from the undergraduates who did the waiting-on and serving.

Two Madonna girls were awarded first place prizes in the Broward County division for their entries in the Serra Club Essay contest. The two are: Sue Ford, a senior, and Sheila Weathersbee, junior contender.

The Parents and Friends Association installed their newly elected officers at the regular monthly meeting. Ray Letendre is president; James Sepielli, vice president and Mrs. Victor Zoble, secretary.

Notre Dame Yearbook Out

By VIRGINIA DUKE

Notre Dame's yearbook "The Madonna" was distributed to students on Friday, May 17. A special surprise bonus awaited this year's patrons.

In addition to seeing their own and their friend's pictures, they will now have, as a souvenir of their school days, a record which will bring back to them the familiar sounds of NDA. Narrated by Charlene Walker, this recording registers among other things the school song, routine announcements over the PA, the NDA orchestra, the click of typewriters and the bang of lockers.

The yearbook is moderated by Mrs. Ruth Barbick of the English Department. Its editor is Pamela Ciampi. Art work throughout the 160-page book, under the skillful hand of Cecilia McCormick, develops the theme "Our American Heritage."

Allen's Photograph Studio worked with the staff in taking the pictures and many "candid shots" were snapped with the school camera by Staff photographers, Margaret Cardet and Genie Alper.

The Madonna Chapter of the National Honor Society at Notre Dame combined an unofficial installation of 1963-64 officers-elect (President, Josephine Diaz; vice president, Mary Elizabeth Bowen; secretary, Ellen Fallon; treasurer, Barbara Harkness) and a farewell party to departing seniors in their last meeting, May 17. The society also presented gifts of congratulations to the senior girls entering religious life in the fall.

Chosen for leadership and all-around participation in the work of the 4-H Club, three Notre Dame girls — Loretta Bussiere, Theresa Downey, and Kitty Costello (and an alternate, Linda Rochawicz) will attend Florida State University for a short course sponsored by the Club.

Ten girls will represent Dade County in a total of 700 from all 4-H Clubs throughout Florida. The theme of this year's course is "Physical Fitness."

A new award was presented to the girl most typifying the true 4-H spirit. This year it was given in the form of a plaque to Kitty Costello, a sophomore at NDA.

Carrollton Literary Winners

By BETH IRWIN

Wednesday, the 15th was a day for rejoicing at the Convent of the Sacred Heart, Carrollton when results of a Vicariate-wide literary contest were disclosed. The contest, a bi-annual event, is open to all of the Sacred Heart schools along the Eastern coast of the United States. Each class is required to submit the two best works, which are then sent to Washington in order to be judged. The type of work depends upon the class.

The 8th grade concentrates chiefly on descriptions while the 9th studies letter writing. Essays are studied in the 10th grade, current events in the 11th, and editorials in the 12th grade.

Carrollton is proud that in the 9th grade our entries took both the first and second places, the only school in the vicariate to do so. Mallory Grove was first and Peggy Black, second. Their topic was a letter written to a friend by one left alone at home. Mallory wrote about the rain likening it to human personalities, while Peggy wrote about an ordinary teenager's reaction to solitude ranging from pleasure at the prospect of peace and quiet to gradual loneliness.

In the 8th grade division Carol Schwarz took the fourth place and Janet Glenn fifth for their compositions on the school physical fitness program. The 10th grade essays were entitled "Beginnings" and in that group Mary Ellen Nash won the seventh place and Molly Fogarty was eighth.

After a year of begging for, collecting, borrowing and cataloguing books, Cardinal Gibbons can now boast of a library containing over 3,000 volumes.

The Boys' Student Council initiated and sparked the beginning of the book drive at the start of the second semester. The drive collected 2,500 books, according to Father Alexander Fiori, Sch. P., Student Council moderator. More than 75 per cent of these was accumulated by the boys.

Among the outstanding benefactors are the Knights of Columbus, who donated two sets of encyclopedias and book shelves, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Glassmeyer, who donated six magazine subscriptions.

A large amount of adult help has been given by Mrs. David Langdon and Mrs. Paul Nagel, who set up the new library and catalogued the books.

Organizations in the school have also contributed. The Boy's Student Council donated the complete works of Shakespeare plus 10 other volumes of science and religion. The National Honor Society has equipped the guidance center section with catalogues from over a hundred major colleges.

Immaculata — LaSalle Ceremony

By JANET RENUART

Immaculata-La Salle High School held its traditional May crowning ceremony on the 22nd of the month. Led by the senior class who wore their caps and gowns, the student body walked in procession to the statue of the Blessed Virgin at Mercy Hospital's main entrance.

After the Glee Club formed a living rosary around the statue each class president presented a floral offering to Mary. The climax of the ceremony came when Student Body President Kathleen Carmona crowned the statue. The recitation of the rosary and the singing of May Hymns terminated the procession.

The newly formed John F. Kennedy Chapter of the Quill and Scroll at Immaculata has published the first issue of its literary magazine, The Pieta.

Under the direction of Mrs.

Aquinas Club Wins Award

By GREG CAMPBELL

The Florida state convention of Junior Exchange Clubs was recently held in Daytona Beach, and we are proud to report that the Junior Exchange Club of St. Thomas Aquinas, under the direction of Sister Marie Laurine, O.P., has been adjudged the number two club in the state.

The award was made on the basis of the club's many service projects and the excellent scrapbook which chronicled its work. The honor of the award is magnified by the fact that the competition was open to both parochial and public high schools all over the state and that Aquinas was one of the smallest schools entered.

Elections were recently held to decide who would guide next year's Student Government at Aquinas. Campaigns were run for a week preceding the actual election, and each candidate was given an opportunity to address the student body. Voting was done by means of voting machines in order to insure secrecy and accurate counting of ballots.

As a result of the election Ed Feeney was named president; Tom Mikes, vice president; and Suzanne Porter, secretary. In their capable hands will rest the success of the Student Government next year.

Newman Has 1st Grid Drills

By RALPH BUCHANAN

WEST PALM BEACH — Cardinal Newman's Twin - Coast Champ gridiron squad has completed its spring workouts.

The Crusaders, who have captured the Twin-Coast Title two years running, without a defeat, finished the early workouts May 17.

Coaches Sam Budnyk, Don Hazelton and Tony Musa put the squad through its paces for two weeks. Hoping to back up last year's 8-2 record with another fine showing next year, new talent made its bid to fill the shoes of the graduates.

Since the practice field is a new addition to school facilities, practice was held on campus for the first time.

The next action slated for the Crusaders will be resumption of drills beginning about Aug. 15.

A years-old tradition, which began at St. Ann's and has remained at Cardinal Newman, was continued this year when the Sophomore Class gave the Seniors the annual breakfast recently.

The day began with Holy Mass offered by Father L. Cann, supervising principal at Newman, at Sacred Heart Church in Lake Worth. After Mass and a short sermon Father Cann blessed the Senior Class rings.

The breakfast which followed took place at the Holiday Inn in Palm Beach. The program yard dash. John Steverding (180 yard low hurdles) and junior Ralph James (broad jump) picked up fifth places. Steverding, by the way, was given a special award for leading the team in scoring. Brother Daly and assistant track coach, George Walker, awarded 22 track letters.

Among the other trophies awarded at the banquet was one to Jose Llanusa (judo); Brother Daniel Roche, C.S.C. (tennis coach); and Mr. Tom Barnard (golf coach).

Mike Berry was chosen Outstanding Athlete of the Year. Mike participated in football, basketball, and baseball. Brother Kerie Dever, C.S.C. presided at the banquet.

Last Friday morning was the setting for Recognition Day at Curley, also an annual affair. Among the more important awards were: The Rampula Award, presented to Larry Rohan as the best athlete-scholar in the school. Junior Tim Fitzpatrick received an award from the Harvard Club for his all-around abilities. Here's The Voice's First All-Star Track Team

A 15-man squad representing four schools has been selected as the first Voice All-Star track team.

With the rapid growth of the sport in the diocese schools — Christopher Columbus High won the Class A District 8 title and finished third in the state finals — the naming of an elite team for the track men is now warranted.

The Explorers, led by two-time state mile champion Frank Lagotic, dominate the squad with 11 members gaining berths. Improving Archbishop Curley placed two of its top runners on the team while St. Thomas Aquinas of Fort Lauderdale and Cardinal Newman of West Palm Beach each gained one berth.

Lagotic won the state championship with a 4:22.6 clocking after earlier in the season going 4:20.6. He was named to the Miami all-star track team by both Miami newspapers for the third consecutive year.

On this basis, he is selected as the diocese's most outstanding track star for the year.

The squad was picked on the same limitations placed on the number of events that an individual can enter in competition with dash man Larry Rohan of Curley and Julio Travieso of Columbus each gaining three berths. Rohan was picked for the 100 and 220-yard dashes plus the anchor spot on the 880 relay.

The versatile Travieso is selected as the high humper and member of both the mile and medley relay units.

One of the most impressive performances was that turned in by Tim Whisner, the 6-2 Newman senior, who came out for track for the first time in the final weeks of the season but still came up with a fine 51.2 for the 440 sprint. A full spring of work probably would have seen Whisner break 50 seconds for the event.

He also makes the mile relay.

In addition to its top performers, Columbus placed Jerry McSwiggen, Pat Mahoney, Paul Peoples, James Cox, Jim Fitzgerald, Terry LaPlant and Lee Bondy on the all-star squad.

Curley earned a spot for Cornelius James on the mile relay while Robert Woodrow, St. Thomas's dash man completes the squad.

McSwiggen, Mahoney, Travieso, James and Woodrow are all juniors, indicating a brilliant year ahead in 1964.

Chicken Dishes Economical - - - Tasty, Too

When it comes to serving a large group with a maximum of delectable food and a minimum of cost, chicken just naturally springs to mind. That's because everyone loves chicken — and the bird is so economical.

Chicken is a special favorite for church suppers, club groups and just about any activity where people gather for good fellowship and good food.

The church supper generally has a two fold reason for being: it is often a fund-raising occasion and always an occasion of warm fellowship.

According to the National Broiler Council, today's chicken comes to the market at the age of nine weeks, and this youthful bird assures the homemaker of always receiving tender, succulent meat.

The tender broiler-fryer goes into a wide variety of dishes that suit the cost-conscious hostess to perfection. One of the best is Chicken in Orange Sauce. The sauce is composed of orange juice, slivers of orange peel, orange sections, and cinnamon, ginger, and dry mustard for tanginess. This gourmet combination is truly superb — and nary a guest will suspect that Chicken in Orange Sauce is a thrift dish!

Thanks to all its special vir-

The same hearty, simple food most suitable for the church supper also is at home anywhere hungry males are in the offing: business — club meetings, school banquets, PTA dinners and such. So if you are elected as the food chairman for such an occasion chicken fricassee with hot biscuits will fill the bill to perfection.

Following is a group of menus, each designed for a specific occasion and each featuring chicken. "Mix them or match them" the chicken recipes are basic enough to come to just about any kind of get-together.

'He Rates Me After His Family'

Should a boy think more of his parents than of the girl he has been dating for over a year? I'm a junior in college and Bill has three more years of graduate work so there's no thought of immediate marriage. We get along very well except on this matter of family loyalties. He feels he should spend a good deal of time with his family and insists they have a right to expect this. I argue that if he really likes me as much as he claims, he would want to spend more time with me. Isn't it possible to remain too attached to one's family? Am I wrong in thinking he's immature in this regard?

By FATHER JOHN L. THOMAS, S.J.

You've asked several very different questions, Millie, but I think you have only one major problem. You like Bill and naturally want to associate with him as frequently as possible. He claims he likes you, too, and has shown it by not dating other girls for over a year. On the other hand, he doesn't date you as often as you feel he should because he insists that he must spend a good deal of time at home with his parents and other members of his family.

Considering his age, isn't his sense of loyalty and attachment to his family somewhat exaggerated or unbalanced? This is possible, for it is not unknown that some individuals are adequately weaned from their parents very late in life, if ever. Nevertheless, Millie, I don't believe that this is Bill's problem, and I rather suspect that you know it isn't either, though both of you are using the pretext of family loyalties to avoid having to face the real issue.

What's the main source of your difficulties? You pointed it out almost in passing, though the fact that you mentioned it suggests that you are not wholly aware of its far-reaching significance. "Bill has three more years of graduate work, so there's no thought of immediate marriage." This simple statement of fact tells us about all we have to know concerning your problem. Assuming that you are a normal couple and that you have already discovered that you like each other very much, the phrase, "no thought of immediate marriage," presents a dilemma that you are trying not to face squarely.

Analyze Attitudes Objectively

Why continue to deceive yourselves? If you follow your natural inclinations and begin to see more of each other, there will be "thought of immediate marriage," for a normal young couple of your age cannot enjoy frequent and intimate association for long without experiencing that insistent emotional involvement (love) which craves permanent union in marriage. If you wish to maintain a workable friendship, that is, a relationship that will not place you under excessive tension and stress, you must regulate your dating and other contacts accordingly.

It is relatively easy to accept these statements in theory, or as they apply to other couples, and yet to ignore their personal implications in practice. That's why I have warned you about self-deception. Don't argue that since you both accept the fact that there can be no thought of marriage for the next three years, there is no danger that you will become deeply involved through more frequent dating. You can't have it both ways, and I think that you know it.

If you analyze your attitudes a little more objectively, Millie, you will probably find that you don't accept this "no thought of immediate marriage" as a guiding principle in your relationships. Although you may not wish to admit it even to yourself perhaps, for such an admission would imply rejection of the plans you and Bill have agreed upon, you are really quite willing to take a chance on an earlier marriage.

Must Make A Choice

Considered in this light, Bill's approach appears much more logical. I feel that knowingly or unknowingly he is using his sense of family loyalty as a convenient means of avoiding deeper involvement. He is not in a position to think realistically of immediate marriage, yet he likes you and probably senses that he cannot run the risk of seeing you too often if he wishes to complete his graduate studies before marriage. Under the circumstances he finds it difficult to provide a good excuse for not spending time with you and prudently concludes that his obligations to his parents offer as good an escape as any other.

What should you do? You have two possibilities. You may decide that a delay of three years is too difficult or too much of a gamble. This would mean that you break up the relationship and start dating others. This is a reasonable solution and should involve no bitterness — you simply face the fact that as a couple you cannot think realistically about marriage for a long time to come, so that promoting further mutual involvement at present is meaningless.

You may decide to continue dating. This means that you honestly accept all the implications of a three-year delay. Stop insisting on more frequent association, for Bill will either tire of arguing with you and break off the affair himself, or he will give in, and then you will have to come to terms with premature emotional involvement. Don't deceive yourself, immediate marriage will not be a solution. Bill will not later forgive you for interfering with his adequate preparation for life. More important, he is not ready for marriage until he has completed his studies, as all too many couples who married prematurely are discovering too late.

THE TRAGEDY OF THE MISSIONS

In a recent magazine article, Father Nicholas Maestrini, former Director of the Catholic Truth Society of Hong Kong, describes the dismaying difficulties of the missionaries. The average mission diocese receives $12,000 yearly help from Rome. With this altogether inadequate sum of money, overworked priests, brothers and Sisters are trying bravely to bring the faith to millions, even billions of people who do not know Christ. He writes: "Innumerable lives and sacrifices of missionaries have been almost wasted because they have been deprived of the necessary tools to do their job" . . . An appeal from Mother Margaret, Superior General of the Daughters of Mary in Trivandrum, India, vividly pictures some mission hardships. She writes: "At present a small room, 20 by 30 feet, is used for services. It can hold only 20 persons. There are 48 Sisters in the Novitiate. Next year the number will be over 55. Since there is no parish church nearby the people are coming to our chapel for Holy Mass and the other Sacraments. It is extremely necessary to have a chapel built" . . . A moderately-sized one with a wing large enough to accommodate the neighboring faithful will cost $3,000 to build. Will you be generous in helping these Sisters and faithful to have the essentials to carry on their work? Send your help now. Thank you.

The Holy Father's Mission Aid for the Oriental Church

A CHILD LOVES THE CHURCH
Jo Ann H. of Los Angeles, writes: "I have now been a Catholic for seven months. I had no religion until I became a Catholic on May 3, 1962. I am eleven and love the Church. I think it is wonderful. I have started a little collection for the mission. This is the first time I have sent money so the more I save the more I will be able to send you. I would like to write to a priest or Sister or even more so you. Love" . . . Of course, we replied, thanking her and deeply moved by her wonderful enthusiasm for the faith . . . Would you like to help too with a prayer and a $1 a month to one of our clubs, such as:

DAMIEN LEPRER CLUB (cares for lepers) ORPHAN'S BREAD (feeds orphans); PALACE OF GOLD (provides for aged) BASILIANIANS (supports mission schools); MONICA GUILD (furnishes chalices, altars, etc., for mission chapels). FATHER'S DAY IS COMING. On June 16, Sunday, Dad comes into his own. In your exuberance over Mother, don't forget Father. He too would like to be remembered. What nicer way than to have a missionary say a Mass for his intention? Or enroll him as a MEMBER of our association ($1 a year; $20 for a lifetime). Then he will participate in the graces of the Masses of 15,000 missionaries. Other suggestions are a FOOD PACKAGE for a Palestine Refugee family, costing $10, a STRINGLESS GIFT to be used where most needed. Or perhaps a MEMORIAL GIFT to a mission chapel.

Will you adopt one of these?
Dear Monsignor:

I enclose $. . . of the $300 needed to educate a Sister or $. . . of the $600 needed for the training of a seminarian. I'll send $. . . monthly or $. . . once a year. I will pray for him or her.

SHARING OUR TREASURE

Professor's History Courses Drew His Interest To Faith

By FATHER JOHN A. O'BRIEN

Do you make any effort to share your Faith with your churchless friends? God wants you to do so, and our bishops have repeatedly stressed this duty. In launching the first diocesan-wide Crusade for Souls in Canada, Bishop John C. Cody of London, Ontario, made this obligation Father O'Brien crystal clear.

"Once we have attained spiritual adulthood in Confirmation," he said, "ours is the perpetual obligation of giving birth to Christ in the hearts of our fellowmen. To neglect this duty would be a type of spiritual birth control far worse than its physical counterpart."

"But," you ask, "how can I do this?" By reading the accounts of conversions and thus discovering what are the credentials, the lines of reasoning, and the influences which, along with God's grace, lead a person into the fold. You can get an insight into some of these in the story of the conversion of Richard Douglas Benton, a professor at the University of Mississippi. While there to address the students and faculty at a convocation, I met Mr. Benton.

WORLD-WIDE FAITH
"I was reared," he related, "in Middleburg, Virginia, as a Southern Baptist. I attended church and Sunday School regularly and two Baptist institutions: Margrave Military Academy and the University of Richmond. My interest in the Catholic religion was kindled by my courses in history. Here I was confronted with a Church which stretched from the days of Christ to the present.

"It dominated the whole European landscape and stood out as the Mother Church of Christendom. This startled me, as Catholics in Virginia and in most of the South are such a small minority. When I entered the Air Force, I met many more and began to get a better idea of the world-wide character of the Catholic religion.

"While in the service in Biloxi, Miss., I became acquainted with Elizabeth Simon. We began to date, and I soon discovered Betty to be a devout Catholic. Her high ideals and devotion to her Faith deepened my interest in Catholicism, and I began to read more about it. After we became engaged, I took a course of pre-marriage instructions from Father John Scanlon, at Nativity Church in Biloxi, and we were married.

TAKES INSTRUCTION
"Betty didn't exercise any pressure on me to join. But I saw how much she got out of the practice of her Faith and realized I was missing something. Assisting at Mass and receiving Holy Communion filled her heart with joy and deepened her love of God and neighbor. God has blessed us with five children and the oldest made her first Holy Communion early this year. I wanted to join her and Betty in receiving, and took a complete course of instruction from Father Walter Maloney, chaplain of the Catholic students at the university.

"Father had me read 'The Faith of Millions' and that removed the last vestige of doubt. I learned how Christ founded the Catholic Church and conferred upon it the authority to teach all nations. He promised to be with it all days, protecting it from teaching error. Memorable are His words: 'Behold I am with you all days, even unto the consummation of the world' (Matt. 28:20).

"Upon the completion of the course I was received into the Church and made my first Holy Communion on Holy Thursday with Betty kneeling at my side. It was a red-letter day in my life. Each day my holy religion means more to me. Never can I sufficiently thank God for His great gift."

(Father O'Brien will be glad to have converts send their names and addresses to him at Notre Dame University, Notre Dame, Ind., so he may write their conversion stories.

Q. Recently I read an article, "Revision of Marriage Laws." It stated that when Catholics enter marriage with non-Catholics before a minister, a justice of the peace, or other qualified civil official, their marriage is null and void before the Church. Are these marriages also considered null and void for the non-Catholics?

A. You cannot have a marriage which is valid for the husband but not for the wife, or vice versa. If a marriage is null for a Catholic husband it is also null for his non-Catholic wife. The Church law affects the Catholic party directly, and concerns the non-Catholic only indirectly because it limits his Catholic partner's ability to enter a valid marriage contract. The Catholic can marry validly only before a priest.

If neither party to the marriage has ever been Catholic the Church is not concerned with their manner of contracting marriage.

The Question Box

When Is Marriage Considered Valid?

BY MSGR. J. D. CONWAY

Q. Recently I read an article, "Revision of Marriage Laws." It stated that when Catholics enter marriage with non-Catholics before a minister, a justice of the peace, or other qualified civil official, their marriage is null and void before the Church. Are these marriages also considered null and void for the non-Catholics?

A. You cannot have a marriage which is valid for the husband but not for the wife, or vice versa. If a marriage is null for a Catholic husband it is also null for his non-Catholic wife. The Church law affects the Catholic party directly, and concerns the non-Catholic only indirectly because it limits his Catholic partner's ability to enter a valid marriage contract. The Catholic can marry validly only before a priest.

If neither party to the marriage has ever been Catholic the Church is not concerned with their manner of contracting marriage.

Q. Can a woman who has repented sincerely of her sinful life with a married man, who has been to confession and received absolution, still have an affection for the man — never seeing him — without offending God? Can this woman pray for this man, though he is a Protestant?

A. I imagine that she cannot stifle her affection without choking herself. She should be sensibly prudent about it, not moon over it as a martyr, not gloat over it until she sins again through memory and desire, not enshrine it amid dreams, nor dally with it until it shakes her new resolution. Let it wear off as gently as possible.

Certainly she can pray for him, but she must be careful that her prayers do not become pious enticements to thinking about him — affectionately.

Q. Please answer soon, before the road maps are torn to shreds. At long last our children are all out of the bottle and diaper stage; and we thought it would be wonderful, relaxing family fun to take a few weekend camping trips. Some of the chosen spots will be near enough that we can take a trip into the village for Sunday Mass. However, some of the camp sites will be too far from town. Would it be a sin for us to miss Mass on these rare occasions? Are all Catholics banned from hunting, fishing and outdoor life if they cannot get to Church?

A. I am confident that you would be excused from Mass under the circumstances you describe.

Q. Recently I heard that a Negro lady in a city of our diocese called a Catholic fraternal organization and arranged to rent their hall for her daughter's wedding reception. The night before the wedding the owners of the building (both Catholics) found out that the woman was a Negro. They threatened to cancel the lease of the fraternal organization on the building if the reception were held there. So they called the lady and told her that she could not have the hall. As a result the wedding reception was hurriedly changed to the basement of a Protestant church, little suited to the purpose. This happened during Brotherhood Week. What is the morality of such action?

A. It is positively immoral; objectively a mortal sin against justice and charity, and a much greater sin of scandal and harm of religion.

The end does not justify the means. Certainly this Catholic organization wanted to keep its lease on its hall; but its members may not commit mortal sin to achieve this purpose. Better that the lease were lost and that the organization be disbanded forever than that it should lend itself to actions so sinful and scandalous.

'GIMMICK-MINDED' WRITERS BYPASS PLAIN-LIVING PEOPLE

Many Film Characters 'Unreal, Misfits'

By WILLIAM H. MOORING

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — "Show me a well-adjusted happily married couple and I will show you two dull people!"

Last week a psychologist here in the West, in a de news headlines with this gimmick line. Let's not bother with his name. Consider his influence on the gimmick-minded, Hollywood set.

Hollywood In Focus

Many "creative film writers" collect and file this type of trash as if it were genuine, 18-carat, dramatic philosophy.

One of the deadliest delusions among film people, here and abroad, is that good people are dull; that characters off-kilter or utterly evil, have theatrical color; that honest, plain-living people are of no dramatic consequence or interest unless (instance "To Kill a Mockingbird") they are caught in social conflicts greater than themselves, when they become symbols.

TALENT

We see what fake for fake's sake is bringing us in the movies. For instance, Ace producer, John Houseman just made a glossy, social drama called "In the Cool of the Day." From Susan Ertz' novel, Meade Roberts wrote a script which, during the era of the Hollywood pot-boiler, might have landed any writer in the studio cooler. This movie cost millions.

The top cast is creamy with rich talent. Robert Stevens, the director, used to make his characters live, film after film. This time he had Panavision and some of the ancient wonders of Greece thrown in; the Parthenon and the Acropolis, the Temple of Zeus (515 B.C.)

and the 10th-century Monastery of Kaisariani.

The film doesn't come off because the characters never become real. A less convincing screenplay would be hard to imagine. Angela Lansbury plays an incredibly cattish wife. Her husband (Peter Finch) goes galivanting with the immature, baby-doll bride (Jane Fonda), whom his best friend (Arthur Hill) coddles to distraction. The finish is out of "Camille."

TRUTH IS MISSING

These characters are not dull. They are boring. They are not happy. They are miserable. They are not colorful. They are contrived. They are not real people at all. They are flat cardboard cut-outs of human misfits.

If either of the males had been a real man he might have made a woman of his wife. If either of the wives had been, in the best sense, a woman, she might have made a man of her husband.

But then, according to the "expert," there would have been two, well-adjusted, happily married couples: four dull people. So instead, we have a dull picture.

"We would be more inclined to accept Pat Boone's explanation to you (about how he came to make "The Main Attraction") if he had not already given TV interviews and promised to ballyhoo the picture in various grass roots cities." Thus an influential public leader in Cleveland, Ohio, reacts to my recent interview with Pat Boone. Many others say the same.

A public promotion tour is part of the original contract. Boone told producer Ray Stark he would fulfill it only if the picture were revised to gain a Movie Code Seal.

Alterations now have been made and a Seal granted. The Legion of Decency is to be requested to see the cut version with a view to reconsidering its moral objections, although chances of favorable re-classification appear slim.

Pat's business manager, reacting to suggestions, may seek release from the ballyhoo tour.

If all else fails, Pat Boone still holds the ace card. He could go on tour and tell his audiences what he told me. "I am unhappy about the film; would not have made it had I known how it would turn out. I advise young people not to see it until they've received their parents' permission."

He told me the film is not good enough for his own children. In this case it is not good enough for other people's children.

And if he were to tell this to the public, the ballyhoo tour would end right there.

'Flipper' Set In The Keys

By WILLIAM H. MOORING

FLIPPER (Good). Family (MGM). This adroit variation on the well worked theme of boy and dog, an Ivan Tors production, directed by James B. Clark, bring us a pleasant item of considerable charm and light, human appeal.

MOVIE REVIEWS

A likable youngster (Luke Halpin), nurses a speared dolphin in his father's fish pens down the Florida Keys.

The comical creature becomes attached to the boy — in a sort of Androcles and the Lion situation — and saves him from a man-eating shark.

Chuck Connors plays Dad, with Connie Scott and Kathleen Maguire on the romantic sidelines. Ideal for unsophisticated youngsters and parents.

BLACK ZOO (Fair). Adults and adolescents. (Allied Artists). This rather lurid chiller-thriller, produced by Herman Cohen (with Aben Kandel and Cohen collaborating on the story), transposes the ubiquitous, crazy scientist with his lethal formulae, into a zoo keeper who sets his wild beasts upon his chosen victims, then neatly returns them to their cages. The idea, as developed, has merit of a kind, but the picture, starring Michael Gough, Jeanne Cooper, Virginia Grey and Rod Lauren, under Robert Gordon's fairly facile direction, plainly is intended for those with a taste for mawkish horrors. Plausibility is thrown to the winds in an all-out bid for shock effects.

PRESIDIENDO la Misa Pontifical oficial oficiada en Camp Matecumbe, el Obispo de Miami, Coleman F. Carroll, que bendijo los nuevos locales de ese centro para jóvenes refugiados cubanos. Se destaca a la izquierda Mons. Bryan O. Walsh, director del Catholic Welfare Bureau, que tiene a su cargo el cuidado de los niños refugiados.

Prepárense Para Líderes de su Pueblo Pide el Obispo a Jóvenes Refugiados

Jovencitos cubanos cuyos padres todavía están en la Cuba comunista fueron urgidos el domingo por el Obispo Coleman F. Carroll a profundizar y fortalecer su fe y adquirir la verdad y las enseñanzas que los prepararán para asumir algún día posiciones claves entre su pueblo.

El Obispo Carroll habló a cientos de jóvenes cubanos en Camp Matecumbe, al sur de Dade County, después de la bendición de un nuevo edificio de cuatro aulas erigido en la propiedad diocesana que está ahora dedicada a la educación de los jóvenes bajo el cuidado directo del Catholic Welfare Bureau de Miami.

Una misa dialogada fue ofrecida a las cuatro de la tarde por Monseñor John J. Fitzpatrick, Canciller asistente de la Diócesis y director del Apostolado en Español, ante un altar levantado al aire libre para la ocasión, en uno de los extremos del nuevo edificio erigido para colegio.

Mons. Bryan O. Walsh, director del Catholic Welfare Bureau dirigió a los muchachos en sus oraciones y el sermón fue pronunciado por el padre Eugenio del Busto. También presentes estuvieron los monseñores Peter Reilly, John O'Dowd y Calixto García Rainery. El padre Neil J. Flemming y el padre John J. Nevins, asistente del Catholic Charities, fueron los maestros de ceremonias.

Señalándole a los jóvenes que sus padres en Cuba y los fieles de Miami se han sacrificado para salvarlos de vivir en un régimen comunista y proveerles con las facilidades necesarias en este país, les recordó el Obispo Carroll a los muchachos que muchos de sus antiguos amigos han sido mandados a Rusia por el régimen de Castro mientras que otros se ven forzados a ir a las escuelas ateas de Cuba.

Sacerdotes americanos — añadió el prelado — han dado su tiempo, su celo y su devoción para tratar de proveerles a ustedes todo lo necesario para terminar su educación católica. Se refirió al amor y la caridad real que les han dado tantos para ayudarlos, que demuestra que cuando un miembro del Cuerpo Místico de la Iglesia sufre, el sufrimiento es sentido por todos.

Sus sentimientos deben ser en primer lugar de gratitud a Dios todopoderoso, que en su bondad los salvó a ustedes de estar en Rusia o en escuelas sin Dios. Mientras que ustedes tienen mucho por qué dar gracias a Dios, mucho se espera de cada uno

Radio y TV

Y WCKE-TV, Canal 7, presentará el domingo a las 9 de la mañana en el programa Telemigo una más de la serie de charlas religiosas a cargo del padre Eugenio del Busto, secretario del Apostolado en Español de la Diócesis de Miami.

— Radio Roloi, WAKA, ofrece todos los domingos a las 9:45 p.m., a través de sus 1120 Kc., las charlas religiosas del Padre Avelino González O. P., capellán del Centro Hispano Católico de Miami.

de ustedes, dijo el Obispo.

Ustedes han podido escapar de la bota del tirano. Ahora tienen la oportunidad de profundizar y fortalecer su fe para adquirir la verdad y las enseñanzas que en su tiempo, nosotros esperamos que los capacitarán para posiciones de liderazgo entre su pueblo. Ustedes tienen una oportunidad poco usual y retadora. Por su ejemplo, cuando ustedes regresen a Cuba, podrán demostrar cómo son los miembros conscientes e inteligentes de la Iglesia. Gracias a Dios podrán dar y demostrar su gratitud siendo apóstoles reales en el futuro.

Durante su sermón el Padre del Busto dijo a los congregados, (que incluían a los Hermanos de La Salle y Maristas y las religiosas filipinas, que supervisan las actividades de los niños cubanos) que la dedicación de un colegio para jóvenes que habían tenido que ser separados de sus padres y de su país por la persecución es algo conmovedor, porque nos da el contraste entre la crueldad de unos hombres y la bondad de otros.

Nadie como ustedes, mis queridos jóvenes, ha experimentado esto, dijo el sacerdote cubano. Cuando ustedes decidieron abandonar su país lo único que sabían era que la Iglesia Católica no los abandonaría y que había un obispo esperándoles en esta nueva tierra para cuidarlos y protegerlos, porque nosotros sabemos que miles de jovencitos cubanos han pasado por este campamento y podemos por tanto evaluar los esfuerzos de la Diócesis de Miami.

Nosotros los cubanos hemos encontrado en el Obispo Carroll al pastor que aparte de satisfacer nuestras necesidades espirituales y materiales ha sido el más firme y constante defensor y el mejor amigo de la causa cubana, declaró el padre del Busto, expresando la gratitud de los muchachos y sus familias no sólo al Obispo Carroll sino también a Mons. Fitzpatrick y a Mons. Walsh.

"Quiero prometerles de parte de ustedes que su sacrificio y el de sus padres y la oportunidad que la Iglesia les ha dado les servirá para hacer de ustedes mejores católicos y hombres capaces de reconstruir a Cuba, agregó el Padre del Busto, quien a continuación se refirió a la significación de las fechas patrióticas cubanas, del 19 y 20 de Mayo, la primera, conmemoración de la muerte de José y Martí y la segunda de la Independencia de Cuba.

La Fe de Millones

Por el R.P. John A. O'Brien
Adaptación al Español del
R.P. Antonio Navarrete

A través de esta serie se está ofreciendo una versión al Castellano del libro "La Fe de Millones", escrito por el R.P. John A. O'Brien, profesor de Teología de la Universidad de Notre Dame, presentando en lenguaje sencillo las doctrinas de la Iglesia Católica. Hasta ahora se han publicado más de 800,000 volúmenes de esta obra, que ha sido traducida a diversos idiomas.

¿Obliga la Fe en las Doctrinas de Cristo?

—CAPITULO V—
De las palabras de Cristo "Id, e instruid a todas las naciones, bautizándolas en el nombre del Padre y del Hijo y del Espíritu Santo: enseñándolas a observar todas las cosas que yo os he mandado" ... "el que creyere y se bautizare se salvará; pero el que no creyere será condenado" ... resulta evidente una doble obligación.

Primera, los Apóstoles son enviados a predicar el evangelio a todas las naciones sin excepción. Cristo vino a salvar todas las almas. Por tanto, era su voluntad que su religión fuese universal, para el género humano entero. Si una raza o un individuo siquiera rehusase aceptar su religión, el objeto y fin de la revelación divina quedaría hasta ese punto frustrada.

Segunda, Cristo impuso a sus Apóstoles la obligación de enseñar la misma e idéntica doctrina que El les había enseñado: "Enseñándoles a observar todas las cosas que yo os he mandado." Es decir, los Apóstoles no podían enseñar diferentes doctrinas para agradar a los variados caprichos y fantasías de cada individuo. Por lo contrario, tenían el encargo de enseñar todas las cosas que Cristo les había mandado. Ni estaban en libertad de enseñar esta doctrina y rechazar la otra. El evangelio cristiano forma un todo orgánico, debiendo ser transmitido al mundo entero, sin omisión o adición, sin cambio ni mutilación.

Basta reflexionar un poco, para que se vea con evidencia que Cristo no podía lógicamente conferir a sus Apóstoles el poder y autoridad de predicar el evangelio a las multitudes, sin imponer a estas el correlativo deber de aceptarlo. Pues, cada derecho entraña el deber correspondiente de parte de otro de respetar ese derecho. Por tanto, la solemne delegación de ese poder y autoridad a los Apóstoles de enseñar, nada significaría y sería contradictoria si Cristo no hubiese impuesto la correspondiente obligación a los oyentes de aceptar ese mensaje.

De aquí resulta claro que Cristo no dió al pueblo más libertad de rechazar sus enseñanzas que la que dió a sus Apóstoles de hacerles cambios. Había venido al mundo a revelarnos estas verdades sobrenaturales y mandó a sus oyentes aceptar la revelación, lo mismo que a los Apóstoles predicarla. Y no solo insiste Cristo en que el pueblo acepte las verdades divinamente reveladas, sino que lo impone como condición indispensable para la salvación eterna.

Más Cristo no se contentó con comisionar a los Apóstoles para predicar sus enseñanzas. A fin de impedir que los Apóstoles pudieran considerarse incapaces de enseñar con exactitud sus doctrinas y disipar el temor de parte del pueblo de que los apóstoles — al fin hombres falibles — le indujeran involuntariamente a error, el divino Maestro les prometió su constante presencia y asistencia divina, diciéndoles:

"Más el Consolador, El Espíritu Santo, que mi Padre enviará en mi nombre, os lo enseñará todo y os recordará cuantas cosas os tengo dichas."

Por tanto, aun cuando los Apóstoles eran de sí mismos falibles, Cristo les aseguró que en su misión de enseñar sus doctrinas, El estaría con ellos todos los días, preservándolos de todo error y refrendando sus enseñanzas con el sello de su aprobación divina. Pues de la misma manera que el Padre le había enviado a El, así El los autorizaba, diciéndoles: "Como el Padre me ha enviado, así os envío Yo."

Confirmaciones en la Catedral

Las personas adultas que aún no hayan sido confirmadas podrán recibir el sacramento de la Confirmación el domingo 2 de junio en la Iglesia Catedral.

El Obispo Coleman F. Carroll administrará ese sacramento a personas que pre-viamente hayan obtenido la autorización escrita por su párroco tanto para ellos como para quien les apadrina, por lo que previamente a la fecha fijada para la ceremonia los interesados en recibir este sacramento deben comunicarse con su párroco o con el sacerdote de habla hispana de su parroquia.

Teniendo en cuenta que éste es uno de los más importantes de los siete sacramentos, la Confirmación debe ser recibida por todos los católicos.

Por medio de la Confirmación el Espíritu Santo viene de manera especial sobre las almas, capacitando a los cristianos para profesar su fe más intensa y perfectamente, como soldados de Cristo.

Flores a María

Mañana, sábado a las 4 p.m., los Equipos de Matrimonios Cristianos que funcionan en distintas parroquias de Miami se reunirán en la Escuela Parroquial del Corpus Christi para hacer un ofrecimiento de flores a la Virgen, ante la gruta que se levanta en los terrenos de esa escuela.

Las flores serán depositadas ante la imagen de la Virgen por los pequeños hijos de los matrimonios integrantes del Movimiento Familiar Cristiano, los que invitan a todos los matrimonios católicos para que asistan con sus hijos.

Consagración a la Virgen

Con motivo de la observancia del mes de mayo como mes de la Virgen María, el Padre Avelino González O.P., capellán del Centro Hispano Católico, compuso una Consagración a la Virgen que fue rezada en la Capilla de ese centro en una sencilla ceremonia. Por lo que de especial tiene esta súplica para los fieles de habla hispana de esta área y como una llamada para que en este mes de Mayo se intensifique el amor a María ofrecemos a continuación el texto de esa Consagración a la Virgen, para que pueda ser usado por nuestros lectores.

Virgen Santísima, Madre de Dios y Madre nuestra: Prostrados ante vuestra venerada imagen, venimos a rendiros el homenaje de nuestro filial amor y a implorar vuestra protección.

Somos pobres pecadores que mil veces hemos ofendido a vuestro divino Hijo y contristado vuestro maternal corazón. Por eso recurrimos a Vos que sois Madre de Misericordia y poderosa intercesora para que por vuestra mediación, podamos alcanzar de vuestro Divino Hijo el perdón de todas nuestras culpas. ó ó ó ó ó Somos débiles y fácilmente sucumbimos ante las dificultades que con frecuencia encontramos en nuestro camino.

Creemos todas las verdades reveladas que la Santa Madre Iglesia nos enseña, pero comprendemos que nuestra fe carece de la firmeza que Cristo quiere de nosotros.

En estos tiempos de dura prueba, recurrimos a Vos, con el ansia de obtener todo el vigor necesario en vuestras creencias. Danos, Oh Virgen Santa, una fe valiente, una fe firme, inquebrantable, para saber orientar siempre nuestro pensamiento y nuestro corazón hacia Dios.

Concedéndonos el valor necesario para confesar la fe de Jesucristo en todas las circunstancias por difíciles y adversas que fueren.

Concedéndonos, Madre querida, toda la fortaleza para soportar las amargas pruebas por las que tenemos que pasar.

Concedéndonos la gracia de sentirnos valientes y contentos en la defensa de la Religión Católica. Pero danos paciencia para soportar las contrariedades y obstáculos que los enemigos de nuestra Religión nos presentan.

Conforta nuestra esperanza; danos valor para soportar la cruz todo el tiempo que el Señor lo tenga dispuesto. Enseñanos a sufrir en silencio, por amor.

Infúndenos un vivo deseo de colaborar en la salvación de las almas.

Enciende en nuestros corazones ardientes anhelos de santidad.

Te suplicamos, Oh Virgen Poderosa, que nos conviertas en instrumentos dóciles a la acción renovadora del Espíritu Santo.

Alcanzados de vuestro Hijo las gracias que preparan, concilian y aseguran la paz. La paz que deriva de la verdad, de la justicia y de la caridad de Cristo. La paz en las almas y en los pueblos, para que en la tranquilidad del orden se dilate el reino de Dios.

Protegednos y libradnos de los enemigos que destruyen nuestra Patria. Interponed vuestras maternales súplicas para que Dios se apiade de nosotros y no nos castigue según nuestras iniquidades, sino que nos otorgue su perdón, su paz y libertad que anhelamos.

Alcanzad para vuestra Iglesia en el mundo entero un nuevo vigor y robustecimiento sobrenatural. Detened las fuerzas del mal. No permitáis que los hijos de las tinieblas prosperen en sus perversas maquinaciones.

Haced que surgan en los pueblos juventudes llenas de vigor espiritual, con un acendrado sentido de amor a Dios, a la patria y a la Iglesia. Danos la ansiada unidad que necesitamos; unidad en la fe, en los comunes anhelos de bien sobrenatural y de bien humano. Danos la concordia de los corazones.

Extingue en nuestros pueblos las diferencias y prejuicios raciales. Danos el sentido de la auténtica fraternidad cristiana.

Ilumina los espíritus y disipa los prejuicios para que se conviertan a la unidad de la verdadera Iglesia todos los que viven alejados de ella.

Acelera el triunfo del Reino de Dios, para honor y gloria de la Santísima Trinidad.

Dignos aceptos, oh Madre querida, nuestra consagración perenne a vuestro Inmaculado Corazón. Queremos amaros siempre, sin traiciones ni mezquindades. Queremos aprender de Vos a amar y servir a Dios con todas las fuerzas de nuestra alma. Queremos que Cristo reine siempre en nuestros corazones, con el aliento de vuestro amoroso Corazón.

Amén.

Creciente Impulso Católico en Perú

ACTUALIDAD LATINOAMERICANA

Perú va en camino de convertirse en la nación más católica de América Latina, opina el Padre Alberto Nevins, Misionero de Maryknoll.

"Si Perú logra mantener durante los próximos dos años el mismo ritmo que ha desarrollado en los dos anteriores, no dudo en decir que pronto sobrepasará a todos los demás en Latinoamérica en la práctica de una fe católica viviente", agregó.

El ex-presidente de la Asociación de Prensa Católica de Estados Unidos y Canadá acaba de terminar una visita de dos semanas al Perú para recoger informaciones para un trabajo que espera publicar sobre la condición de la Iglesia en este país.

Cuando se le pidió que comparara la atmósfera religiosa en el Perú con la de Colombia — país considerado por algunos como el más católico de Latinoamérica — el Padre Nevins contestó que Perú se adelantaba rápidamente.

"En Colombia la fe es estática, tradicional y dominada por el clero; no muestra evidencia de la visión universal, del vigor ni de la participación de los seglares, como se ve por todas partes en Perú", agregó.

He visitado al Perú varias veces por muchos años, y hasta ahora salía pesimista; pero esta vez "dejo al Perú con optimismo, pues he visto un cambio tremendo en la vida económica y en la vida religiosa".

El sacerdote norteamericano hace notar que parroquias antes vacantes tienen ahora clero extranjero, y que se multiplican las escuelas católicas que formarán a los líderes de mañana. En sólo las escuelas dirigidas por misioneros norteamericanos hay 10.000 alumnos. Se ha formado también un cuerpo nacional de Voluntarios del Papa, que cuenta ya con 75 peruanos.

Además, agrega el Padre Nevins, más de 50 seminaristas y sacerdotes jóvenes del Perú estudian en Roma; 37 religiosas peruanas estudian cursos graduados en colegios y universidades católicas de Estados Unidos; 27 muchachas peruanas siguen cursos de enfermería en Estados Unidos y el Canadá, y varias docenas de jóvenes de uno y otro sexo irán a estudiar a Estados Unidos en Setiembre.

"Este programa intensivo de educación superior en el extranjero entrena los líderes que formarán el futuro de la Iglesia en el Perú del mañana", comentó.

En la entrevista el P. Nevins se refirió también a los nuevos seminarios en Lima y Pucallpa, al movimiento de cooperativas de crédito y construcción de viviendas, al impacto de la Iglesia en la opinión pública por medio del nuevo Centro de Información Católica de Lima, a los programas de catecismo popular y a los Cursillos de Cristianidad.

"Perú ha sido bendecido doblemente, con un cardenal (Juan Landázuri Ricketts, arzobispo de Lima) que se muestra compasivo ante las necesidades de su pueblo y es amado por los pobres; y con un nuncio apostólico (Mons. Rómulo Carboni) que está al día con los nuevos tiempos, que ve los problemas, encuentra soluciones y se esfuerza constantemente por aplicarlas".

PERU puede ser el país donde más auge esté tomando el catolicismo en Latinoamérica. En la foto, un aspecto de las ceremonias efectuadas el pasado año en Lima con motivo de la canonización de San Martín de Porres.

"Debemos multiplicar nuestros recursos y nuestro personal — agregó — para aprovechar mejor el impulso que toma la Iglesia".

Gratitud Papal a E.U. Por Ayuda a A.L.

WASHINGTON, (NC) — El número de sacerdotes, religiosos y religiosas que han ido de Estados Unidos a prestar servicios en América Latina aumentó en 700 en año y medio, de 2.530 en agosto de 1961, a 3.205 en enero de 1963, trantando así de atender la petición de la Santa Sede de que los católicos de E.U. ayuden con más personal a la Iglesia en América Latina.

"Si bien la contribución es modesta, se preparan mayores contingentes", anunció Mons. Joseph T. McGucken, arzobispo de San Francisco, en una carta a S.S. el Papa Juan XXIII. El prelado es director del subcomité de personal religioso de la Comisión Episcopal pro América Latina.

Aclara el CELAM Impresiones Erradas Sobre el Caso Cubano

El Boletín Informativo del Consejo Episcopal Latinoamericano refuta apreciaciones del Pbro. Alberto Nevins, Misionero de Maryknoll, sobre el catolicismo en Cuba.

"Los refugiados cubanos que inundaron los Estados Unidos — escribió el P. Nevins — eran los bien alimentados, la clase media y los ricos. Eran también los 'buenos católicos'. Su ceguera hacia la injusticia social era su equivocación. En esta ceguera creyeron que todos los cubanos permanecerían fieles a la Iglesia y se levantarían contra Castro en la primera oportunidad".

"El apoderamiento de Cuba es una muestra de lo que pudiera suceder mañana en muchos otros países latinoamericanos" dice el misionero. "Cuba era el cuarto país en rango económico de América Latina. Su pueblo se encontraba relativamente bien, comparado con el de otras partes. Sin embargo, cuando Castro prometió a los cubanos una oportunidad de llenar su estómago y realizar sus aspiraciones, las masas del pueblo compraron pronto la oportunidad".

El Boletín Informativo, editado por el RP Gustavo Amigó SJ, sacerdote cubano, explica luego como "nota del traductor":

"La más grave (de varias inexactitudes) es el desconocimiento de la actitud de la Iglesia. Se la acusa de no dar mentalidad social a las clases pudientes. Desde 1940 por lo menos, en Cuba se dieron lecciones de catolicismo social, y no fue culpa de la Iglesia que no penetraran prácticamente en grandes núcleos....

"La interpretación de la revolución cubana es demasiado simplista. Esa revolución fue esencialmente un movimiento de la clase media para librarse de Batista, sin mayores implicaciones en la mayoría que las muy vagas promesas por Castro, quien posteriormente desvió su cauce hacia el marxismo. Por otra parte, entre los refugiados cubanos no hay sólo ricos, sino de todas clases".

En el artículo que el Boletín reproduce, el Padre Nevins habla del peligro de que "la tragedia cubana puede repetirse en otras naciones a pesar de siglos de tradición católica", y aboga por un programa intenso de justicia social que incluya reforma agraria integral, urbanización decente de los miserables suburbios, y alfabetización.

"La verdad del asunto — concluye —, por difícil que sea de encarar, es que las masas no se identifican a sí mismas con la Iglesia. No asocian a la Iglesia con sus vidas inmediatas y sus problemas diarios. En su ignorancia, desconocen las doctrinas sociales de la Iglesia (no saben) que hay respuestas católicas a los dilemas sociales y económicos en que se hallan".

En ella hace constar que "existe una admirable disposición entre los obispos de Estados Unidos y los superiores de congregaciones... a sacrificar sus propias necesidades para servir las mayores de la Iglesia vecina".

En una respuesta inmediata, el Papa Juan declara que "el enterarnos que este esfuerzo significa sacrificios, nos conmueve profundamente".

"Nos damos perfecta cuenta que el personal enviado a esos países no se recluta entre los que sobran, sino que se restringen graves necesidades domésticas, para poder prestar una ayuda tan laudable a la Iglesia en Latinoamérica... tan importante miembro del Cuerpo Místico de Cristo, hoy en peligro".

Tiene el Soberano Pontífice luego una expresión de aliento para "el proyecto excelente" de enviar también seglares — hombres y mujeres —, a trabajar en varias diócesis latinoamericanas como Voluntarios Papales.

Entre los misioneros figuran 117 sacerdotes diocesanos, 1.478 religiosos, 200 hermanos legos, y 1.410 religiosas.

Get your FREE COPY of this wonderful GUIDEBOOK. There is no obligation (no one will call). Mailed in a plain wrapper. Write to Lithgow Funeral Centers, 487 N.E. 54th St., Miami 37, Fla., or telephone PLaza 7-5544.
